CIO Dismisses Strike Heads in Mahoning Area

Hall and Two Other Leaders are Ordered Removed

REDS IN DISPUTES?

Communist Party Official Claims Part in Struggle

Youngstown, Ohio.—A CIO "purge" began today, as the union's ax fell on Gus Hall and two other strike captains in the Mahoning valley steel sector.

John Owens, general CIO strike director in Ohio, announced without comment the removal of Hall, now in jail under charges of heading a "dynamite ring," as strike captain in the Warren area. A joint leadership of Harry Wines and John Grajciar replaced him.

Owens also stripped two of his Youngstown strike lieutenants of their authority, removing Bob Burke, chief organizer at the Republic steel plant, and John Stevenson, organizer at the main plant of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

Communist participation in the strike was claimed in circulars distributed through the valley today. In the circulars Phil Bart, "Mahoning valley secretary of the Communist party," said:

"Of course the Communist party and its members in the steel mills participated in the drive to organize steel and all other unorganized industries. The Communist party joins with the against reactionaries, open shop violence, and fascism."

"Ignorant of Removal" Philip Murray, chairman of S. W. O. C. (the CIO steel affiliate which called the strike May 27) said at Pittsburgh he "knew nothing about" the removal of the Ohio strike leaders.

Owens' "housecleaning" order was issued "only a few" hours after another prominent chief of the CIO movement—Homer Martin, head of the automobile workers—removed three union organizers at Flint, Mich., and transferred a Detroit organizer from his post. The action, he explained, was "disciplinary" and followed Martin's investigation of several unauthorized strikes at General Motors plants.

Governor Frank Murphy deplored communist activities when, at Lansing yesterday, he said that a recent "labor holiday" in the Michigan capital "had the characteristics of communist technique." Tom Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel, Representative Cox (D-Ga.), and others have charged that CIO leadership has come under "communist influence."

Bart's statement said that "today communism is twentieth century Americanism."

"The American people," he said, "heard Girdler . . . shout 'communist' against President Roosevelt in the last election, but the answer of the American people was clear and decisive. Today this same un-American gang shouts 'communism' against the CIO and S. W. O. C. . . . It is just as much truth in the present day charge as there was in that against Roosevelt. . . . Great people's movement uniting labor, storekeepers, middle class folds, farmers, professionals and all who defend the Americanism of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln is needed to drive out and defeat these would-be imitators of Hitler."

Plan Three Rallies Arrangements for two strike rallies in Ohio and one in Pennsylvania tomorrow were completed by Regional Director Owens. At Johnstown, Pa., where Bethlehem Steel's Cambria works are, a rally of strikers and miners from the surrounding territory will be addressed by Philip Murray.

At Youngstown, Clinton Golden, S. W. O. C. regional director, will

Bang's Disease Bill Is Approved

Governor Also Signs Fond du Lac County Fish Hatchery Measure

Madison.—The Barnes bill setting up a state program for eradication of Bang's disease from Wisconsin dairy herds became law today after its approval by Governor LaFollette.

The chief executive also made effective through his signature the Fitzsimmons bill authorizing the conservation commission, when it has funds available, to acquire 90 acres of land on the shores of Lake Winnebago in the town of Taycheedah, Fond du Lac county, for a fish hatchery.

Fond du Lac county now owns the land, which it will contribute. The Bang's disease control bill will be established on the same principle as the law governing eradication of bovine tuberculosis.

If 75 per cent of the farmers in any county petition the department of agriculture and markets for a testing program, the other 25 per cent will be required to test their herds. For condemned cattle which must be removed from the herds, the law fixes an indemnity of $20 on registered cattle and not to exceed that amount on non-registered animals.

After the regular session of the legislature ended yesterday, the governor's office had about 50 bills which have to be signed within the next 10 days to become law. The outlook was that approximately 400 bills, including those previously signed, would go into the 1937 statutes.

NO PAPER MONDAY

The Appleton Post-Crescent will not be issued on Monday, July 5.

Senate Civil Liberties Committee Expected to Air Report on Battle

Washington.—Senate investigators began today to sift a mass of conflicting testimony about the bloody Memorial day battle at Chicago between police and steel strike demonstrators.

Although Senator Thomas (D-Utah) said the evidence indicated "extreme police brutality," neither he nor Chairman LaFollette (D-Wis.) indicated what further action their civil liberties committee might take.

Committee employees said they probably would publish a full report of the battle—in which 10 strike sympathizers were killed—and "leave the rest to the people of Chicago."

A dozen witnesses, some of them still convalescent, told the committee four platoons of club-wielding patrolmen unexpectedly had charged a "peaceful demonstration" near the Republic Steel plant.

'Man Failure' Is Blamed for Train Smashup

Most of 112 Persons Injured in Wreck Not Seriously Hurt

CRASH IN EVANSTON

Majority of Passengers Bound for Outings in Northern Wisconsin

Chicago.—(AP)—"Man failure" was ascribed today as the probable cause of a train wreck in suburban Evanston that caused injuries to at least 112 persons most of whom were bound for holiday outings in northern Wisconsin.

Twenty-nine passengers were treated at hospitals and first aid was administered to 83 on the scene. More than 200 others in the near capacity load were shaken when the second section of the Chicago and North Western railway's Ashland limited crashed into the rear of the first section at the Davis street station last night.

B. E. Terpening, general superintendent of the road, said a preliminary inquiry indicated the second section ran past an automatic stop signal.

"This was not a mechanical failure, as the signals were working perfectly," he said. "It looks more like man failure."

The second section rounded a long curve and plowed into the lounge car of the first train as the latter was taking on passengers. Engineer William Schermerhorn of Milwaukee jammed on the air brakes to reduce the speed to seven or eight miles an hour.

Two women on the observation platform leaped to the station platform when they saw a collision was inevitable. In the first section the screams of women passengers mingled with the sound of breaking timbers. Passengers were knocked from their seats and luggage tumbled on them from baggage racks.

Fifteen members of the train crew were treated at hospitals. Two of them, Paul Holden, 18, cook, and Robert Lundee, 32, a chef, both of Chicago, were seriously scalded in the diner.

Engineer Schermerhorn and Fireman John Steiner, of Milwaukee, declined to make statements after the accident. They were not held. Schermerhorn usually was assigned to pilot the train north of Milwaukee, the police said. He brought the train into Chicago Thursday.

P. G. Campbell, superintendent of the Wisconsin division of the road, said it was "apparent that the second section went through the signal, which was tested and found to be in proper working order." He declined to "place the blame on any person."

Police furnished a list of persons treated at the St. Francis hospital most of whom were released and returned to the station to continue their trip.

Fact-Finding Group to Try to Settle Strike

Lansing, Mich.—A five member fact-finding committee, appointed by Governor Frank Murphy, was under commission today to investigate and recommend a basis for settlement of the lumberjack strike in the upper peninsula.

The upper peninsula's labor difficulties have been too prolonged, Governor Murphy said. "We have no mediation agency as yet. Therefore I have designated a fact-finding committee of five to get the facts, spread them before the public and make recommendations to get the parties together."

Dykstra Plans Speaking

Madison.—President Clarence A. Dykstra of the University of Wisconsin will visit his alma mater, the University of Iowa, July 16-17, at the beginning of a speaking tour of several states. He will address educational and Wisconsin alumni groups. Dykstra said he and Mrs. Dykstra would return about Sept. 1 from Laguna Beach, Calif., where they will vacation.

NO PAPER MONDAY

The Appleton Post-Crescent will not be issued on Monday, July 5.

Distress Signals Spur Hunt By Air and Sea for Amelia In Howland Island District

War Threat Averted When Russia Agrees to Recall Forces From Amur Region

Tokio.—(AP)—Dispatches from Hsinking, capital of the Japanese-occupied state of Manchoukuo, said today that Soviet Russia would start withdrawal of troops and gunboats from Amur river islands this afternoon.

Recall of the forces under an agreement reached between the Japanese ambassador to Moscow and the Soviet foreign office, further eased war tension arising from a clash between Soviet gunboats and Japanese-Manchoukuoan forces last Wednesday.

The dispatches said 20 Russian patrol boats were being withdrawn from the Sennufu and Bolshoi islands in the Amur river in addition to troops.

The Japanese army in Manchoukuo, in a statement from Hsinking hailed the peaceful settlement of the dispute but warned that further "illegal acts" against Manchoukuo territory by the Soviets would not be tolerated.

Await Evacuation

Actual Russian evacuation, however, apparently was awaited by Japanese army leaders before they would relax their vigilance, especially since they alleged Russia broke a previous promise to withdraw.

Some Japanese authorities still went on to insist Moscow must give adequate guarantees against a repetition of the Amur affair and recurrence of border incidents generally.

A wave of relief swept over the nation when newspaper extras made public the agreement reached in Moscow. All members of the cabinet of Prince Fumimaro Konoe expressed deep satisfaction that a possible war had been averted.

One of the best indications that the situation was no longer considered dangerous was seen in Premier Konoe's departure for a weekend of golf and swimming in the country.

Fear Aftermath (An official communiqué in Moscow announced the Russian evacuation had been ordered after the Japanese ambassador, Mamoru Shigemitsu, agreed to the withdrawal of Japanese-Manchoukuoan military cutters from the Amur islands.)

Though the settlement apparently removed any immediate danger of war, informed circles feared that in the long run feeling between the two countries would be greatly embittered by the incident.

Many saw the result as a serious blow to Soviet prestige in the Far East—an incident which might rankle for a long time to come.

There was apprehension over possible effect on other questions involving the two great nations, particularly renewal of negotiations for a permanent fisheries treaty to end another long-standing dispute.

Japanese and Russian armed forces were concentrated along the Amur river and on its banks when the dispute threatened to break into open war.

The Manchoukuoan government and Japanese army leaders talked of forcible measures to maintain "freedom of navigation" on the Amur, northeast boundary between Siberia and Manchoukuo.

Basque government forces, headed by President Jose Antonio de Aguirre, abandoned their last stand in northern Spain Saturday as Insurgent General Francisco Franco's troops pushed closer to Santander, 45 miles west of conquered Bilbao.

Aguirre set the number of casualties in the Basque defense of Bilbao during the three-month insurgent offensive which ended June 19 at 45,000 dead and wounded.

In Madrid, government supporters found encouragement in what they believed was the impending death of the 27-nation non-intervention system blocking shipments of arms and men to Spain.

Madrid newspapers expressed confidence Britain and France would then sell arms and munitions to the Spanish government.

Britain, France and Russia stood virtually as allies against Germany and Italy in the Spanish war crisis as further developments on the fate of the non-intervention plan were awaited.

The three nations remained firm in their rejection of Italo-German

Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, were believed afloat in their monoplane today on the Pacific ocean, near Howland island. Ships and planes were taking part in the search for the two.

Senate Leaders Fear Surprise Move on Court

Both Sides in Dispute Want All Members Present Tuesday

Washington.—(AP)—Leaders on both sides of the senate court bill fight asked all senators today to be present for the opening of the big battle Tuesday.

The lineup on the substitute measure offered by administration senators yesterday was so close that chiefs of both sides and foes wanted to be ready for any surprise move.

Although no test votes were expected during the first few days of the debate, the situation was the most tense since the Democrats gained their overwhelming senate majority in 1933.

Supporters of the administration substitute said they had 54 sure votes. Opposition leaders said there were at least 43 votes against it, and challenged the claim of the other side.

Even with 54 votes, the administration would have only a margin of five over a majority. It could have to keep its entire strength within reach at all times to prevent being upset by a surprise maneuver.

Neither side was sure of its strength on all the possible parliamentary moves, such as a motion to table the bill, to send it back to committee, or to postpone it indefinitely.

As was the case with the original measure, the fate of the new proposal rests largely with a big group of publicly uncommitted senators.

The public commitments were 36 against, as compared with the line-up on the original bill of 33 for and 38 against.

The administration substitute, written largely by Democratic Leader Robinson of Arkansas, would authorize the addition of one to the number of incumbents over 75.

The number gradually would drop to nine as older justices retired or died.

Clipper Starts On Ocean Flight

Lands on Shediac Bay, N. B., Before Flying to Newfoundland

Port Washington, N. Y.—(AP)—Well on its way toward bridging the broad North Atlantic by commercial airline, the Pan American Clipper III, 45,500-pound flying boat, coasted to a landing on Shediac bay, N. B., at 10:52 a. m. E. S. T. today.

After a stay of only an hour and 33 minutes the plane lifted off the bay bound for Bedford, Newfoundland, 471 miles away. On Monday it will wheel eastward for the 1,000 mile overwater jump to Ireland.

The Pan American always has announced receipts of a telegram from Captain Harold E. Gatty, commander of the boat scheduled to wing across the ocean to Foyens, Ireland, on Monday, saying he had negotiated the 601 miles from Port Washington in 4 hours 23 minutes.

Bedford is the takeoff point for the eastward survey flight of the American boat. A British imperial Airways boat will soar off the water at the mouth of the Shannon river, Foyens, at about the same hour Monday, westbound.

Today's flight by the Americans was being matched by a British crew leaving Southampton, England, in an Imperial Airways flying boat, H. M. A. Caledonia.

Cutter Seeks Plane

A heavy smoke belched from the funnels of the alicean white, 250-foot cutter Itasca, visible for nine miles from its Howland island anchorage as it plowed toward the smooth sea in quest of the $80,000 Earhart "flying laboratory."

While the cutter hunted by sea the woman who started a world flight "just for fun," a navy flying boat sped over the 1,500 mile distance from Honolulu.

The navy minesweeper Swan joined the hunt from a position halfway between here and Honolulu.

Plane Believed to Have Overshot Mark in Hop From Loe

KINSMEN HOPEFUL Battleship, Cutter, Flying Boat to Take Part in Search

Oakland, Calif.—(AP)—A theory that Amelia Earhart might have brought her plane down safely on a small coral atoll south of Howland island was advanced today by her technical advisers, Paul Mantz, in a telephone conversation with George Palmer Putnam.

Putnam, husband of the aviatrix, said he conferred with Mantz at Burbank.

Oakland, Calif.—(AP)—Mrs. Fred Noonan, wife of the navigator of Amelia Earhart's missing plane, became hysterical today and was placed under care of a physician at her home. Mrs. Noonan was in an automobile going to the Oakland airport with a friend to confer with George Palmer Putnam, Miss Earhart's husband, when she collapsed.

Honolulu.—(AP)—Reports that the voice of tousle-haired Amelia Earhart had been picked up, calling "S O S" from the mystery spot where she is lost in mid-Pacific, buoyed hopes for her return to rescue today as the United States navy ordered a battleship into the search.

Two Los Angeles amateur radio operators as late as 7 o'clock a. m. Pacific time (9 o'clock a. m. Appleton time) said they distinctly heard her sound her call letters, KHAQQ, after thrice saying "S O S" some 20 minutes earlier.

At San Francisco, however, a coast guard station reported at 11 o'clock a. m. central standard time it had received no word whatever, although radio reception was unusually good.

Earlier the Los Angeles operators, Walter McMenamy and Carl Pierson, interpreted radio signals as placing the plane adrift near equator between Gilbert island and Howland island, the latter Miss Earhart's destination when her fuel was exhausted more than 20 hours before.

Send Battleship At Washington, the navy department ordered the battleship Colorado, with three planes aboard, to begin a search from Honolulu, where it arrived yesterday.

"I recognized Miss Earhart's voice from conversations I have had with her, although I never heard her on the air before," said Pierson concerning his 7 o'clock a. m. reception.

Walter recognized her because he maintained wireless contact with her plane on her flight from Oakland to Hawaii this spring.

Their reports were added to an increasing number of others, all believed coming from the missing plane and prompting coast guardsmen to express belief that Miss Earhart and her navigator would be rescued.

The operators said that in between Miss Earhart's code and voice signals they could hear "carrier wave," a steady whistle from which her location could be determined by means of a radio compass.

As searchers took hope from their knowledge of the plane and her companion carried a rubber raft intended to keep them afloat, the weather bureau at Washington reported clouds and some wind near Howland island.

"KHAQQ" is the call of Miss Earhart's plane, last heard from in the air yesterday at 1:12 p. m. CST, when she reported she and her navigator, Fred Noonan, could not sight land and were nearly out of gas.

Warship Hears Message

Another message signed with the plane's call letters and seeking radio contact was picked up in the South seas earlier by the New Zealand warship Achilles, the San Francisco coast guard reported.

Fifty-Three New Cases Reported from Wisconsin in May

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington—The Farm Debt Adjustment Service handled 53 new cases in Wisconsin during May, the Department of Agriculture announces.

According to a report, the debts of 1,080 destitute Badger farmers have been reduced from $5,120,932 to $3,080,212 in the past twenty-one months, ended May 31.

At the end of April, a total of 1,027 cases had been handled, and the total debt, before adjustment was $4,914,782.

The reduction of debts of Badger farmers in May resulted in the payment of $1,547 in back taxes to local tax authorities, bringing the total payment of back taxes during the twenty-one months up to $34,756.

The Department points out that the farm debt adjustment service is free to debtors and creditors alike as it is carried out by voluntary committees serving as mediators between over-burdened farm debtors and their creditors.

Catlin Opposes Bill but His Vote Is Not Recorded

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—While "Uncle Sol" Levitan, state treasurer, sat on the sidelines listening, Assemblyman Mark Catlin, in his last speech of the 1937 legislature, Thursday made a scorching attack on a bill which appropriates $2,940.50 to the Commercial Casualty Insurance company for legal expenses in the defense of Treasurer Levitan in the failure of the Capital City bank several years ago.

Passed by the senate with little comment, the bill reached the assembly with a mass of other last-minute legislation Thursday afternoon and was expected to be approved, as were many other bills, quietly.

Without warning Catlin jumped up to condemn Assemblyman Milton Murray, (R), Milwaukee, who explained the bill and made the motion for passage. "How my brother Republican ever got into this mess I don't know," Catlin began. "I'm going to hold it against him in the years to come."

No Justification

"If any of you men can justify this you've sunk a lot lower than I thought," he cried hotly.

Speaker Paul Alfano interrupted Catlin with a warning that he would be forcibly seated "unless the gentleman from Outagamie refrains from impugning the motives of the members of the house."

Catlin ridiculed the senate for its passage of the bill. "It's just another one of its disgraceful actions," he said.

When no one else in the chamber showed an inclination to speak, the house approved the bill and sent it on its way to the governor for final blessing.

Catlin was the butt of laughter, when, immediately after his trade, the vote was taken and his voting machine refused to work. Thus, ironically enough, the only verbal opponent of the bill will not be recorded in the house proceedings as having opposed it.

Thousands to Participate In Fourth of July Events During Three-Day Holiday

The Fourth of July this year means a festive 3-day holiday for most people and thousands are planning picnic trips to scenic spots in Wisconsin, quiet hours of relaxation at lakeshore cottages or participation in community celebrations.

If the men who signed the Declaration of Independence 151 years ago could return tomorrow, they probably would be astounded at the deafening barrage of fireworks explosions which will begin early in the morning and continue after midnight in observance of the birth of our country.

Civic events have been arranged by fraternal and patriotic organizations in most cities and villages with one of the largest being staged by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Erk park at Appleton. Band concerts, free acts, baseball games and fireworks displays are included in practically all entertainment programs.

Highways Open

The heaviest traffic of the year will find most of the major highways open for travel their entire lengths and free from detours. Many counties will enlist additional traffic patrolmen to minimize motor vehicle accidents and keep the stream of traffic flowing smoothly.

Safety-minded groups have warned against fast or drunken driving, excessive sun bathing, infection by poison ivy, swimming at unsupervised beaches and careless handling of fireworks in an effort to prevent a serious accident toll. A total of 441 persons met a violent death during the double holiday last year. Motor vehicle accidents accounted for 254 fatalities, 103 were drowned and 7 died as the result of fireworks mishaps.

LaFollette To Speak

Over 25,000 people are expected to flock to Erk park in Appleton to hear Governor Philip F. LaFollette deliver an Independence day address at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The 3-day picnic will feature continuous free acts, midway, fireworks displays on Sunday and Monday evenings, doll buggy, bicycle and coaster wagon parades, a demonstration of airplane speed racing, all-star baseball games and a parachute jump. Social dancing will be continuous afternoon and evening on two dance floors.

Neenah-Menasha residents will celebrate at Riverside park Monday. Power boat races will be sponsored by the Neenah Boating club in the afternoon and the Neenah Nodaway Yacht club will stage races on the Lake Winnebago triangular course July 3, 4 and 5. A fireworks display and dancing will provide evening entertainment and the Neenah High school band will present three concerts during the day.

Clintonville Event

A 3-day golden jubilee and homecoming is planned at Clintonville. More than 700 former residents have been invited to attend and the response indicates a record attendance. A milking contest and parade will be provided on the extensive program.

The American Legion will sponsor a picnic at LaFollette park, Kaukauna, Saturday, Sunday and Monday with a widely known barn dance troupe from Milwaukee headlining the event. Concession stands, rides, shows and other games will begin this evening and the picnic will be climaxed with a fireworks display at Riverside park Monday night.

New London Celebration

New London residents will revel for three days during the Homecoming celebration planned by the Norris-Spencer post of the American Legion. Rides and concessions will be furnished by an amusement company and musical entertainment will be provided by the WLS Corn Huskers Sunday and Monday. The New London Boat club will play an important part in the activities.

A 2-day celebration and homecoming will take place at Hilbert with the Hilbert Citizens band playing Sunday and the Sherwood 4-H club band playing Monday. Radio artists from WLS will furnish free acts and baseball games will be played both mornings with dancing each evening.

An Outagamie County league All-Star baseball team will play the league leaders in an exhibition game Monday afternoon at Hortonville as part of the 1-day celebration. An afternoon concert will be played by the 120th Field Artillery band on Sunday at Interlake park in Appleton for the mill's papermakers' union picnic.

College Rebuilds Hall of Science

Reconstruction of the chemistry laboratories in Stephenson Hall of Science on the campus of Lawrence college is under way, according to the plans announced some months ago. This includes complete modernization of the interior of Stephenson hall, including reception and lecture rooms, and the re-equipment of all chemistry laboratories, both private and class.

When completed this science equipment of the college will be on a par with those of any educational institution in the middle west.

Other reconstruction and renovation being carried out at the college during the summer months include the repainting of the exterior of Brokaw hall, men's dormitory, and the interior of Ormsby hall, Freshman women's dormitory. Minor changes are also being made in the administrative offices in the library.

Work on Stephenson hall will cost approximately $25,000. The Lawrence company has been retained by the college to plan and oversee the installation of equipment, much of which it will furnish.

Education Is Offered Inmates Of Reformatory

Nearly Every Man Enrolled In Evening School Classes

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Practically every inmate of the Wisconsin state reformatory is now enrolled in an educational program which offers nearly every vocational subject and operates through a full day as well as an evening schedule of classes. S. C. Govin, educational director of the institution, reports in the current issue of "The Rebuilder," monthly publication of the state board of control. Mr. Govin contributed a feature article, "Punishing with Education," to the magazine this month.

"Education at the Wisconsin state reformatory is aimed at rehabilitation through individualized teaching fitted to the needs of each inmate. It is the natural development of the liberal use of many university extension courses for the more capable and better educated boys at the reformatory. No boy needs to be out of reach of an opportunity for education adapted to his special needs. This type of educational effort is proving increasingly effective, and is generally recognized as an outstanding achievement in the problem of the education and rehabilitation of youthful prisoners," Govin wrote.

The author points out the difficulties in such an educational program, including the warped social point of view and the resentment of the youthful inmate as the result of a reformatory sentence, and the fact that most of the men and boys in the institution have poor educational backgrounds.

One College Man
"Only one has any college experience in the present population, only 10 per cent have completed high school, about 50 per cent have reached the eighth grade, and 7 per cent are illiterate or near illiterate. Furthermore the average age of all commitments is 21 years and very few of the admissions show any vocational experience or training. The wide range of all these factors gives a rather clear conception of the difficult problem of education in the reformatory," he continued.

Inmates' aptitudes are determined through personal interviews, "which seek to change the attitude of resentment to one of cooperation with, and adjustment to, the rigid routine limitations of institutional life. The first course of instruction is upon the rules of the institutions which gives the inmate a clear idea of the limitations imposed but also what is expected of him and the opportunities for development and training that may be open to him while in the reformatory. Reaction to this first instruction determines the inmate's first assignment in work or school, and is the basis of a forecast of a probable educational program adapted to his special needs," according to Govin.

The plant will operate on a 45-hour week and an 8-hour day, according to the terms of settlement. The strike was peaceful, with no picketing.

Prepare Boy Scout Camp For Paul Bunyan Week

An advance guard of five persons is now at the Valley Council Boy Scout camp at Gardner Dam preparing for the invasion of scouts from this area July 18, the opening of Paul Bunyan week.

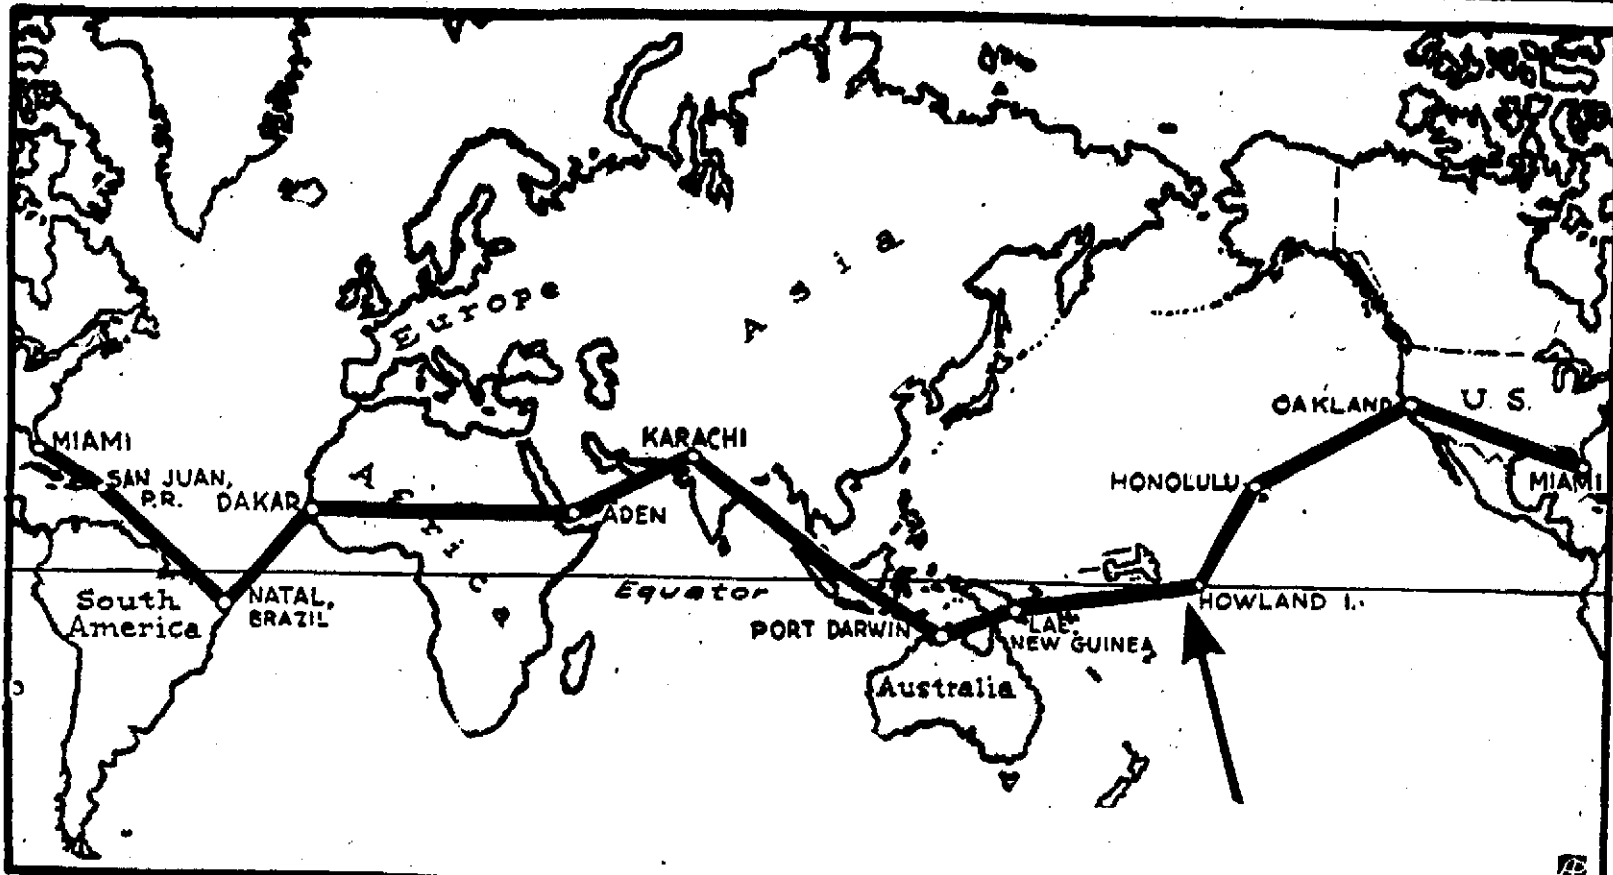

Harold Williams, Milwaukee, assistant director, Orville Yingling and William Spalding, Kaukauna, and Robert Schroeder and William Heckrodt, Menasha, are repairing screens on camp buildings, checking equipment and making minor improvements for the 1937 season. Two porcupines were found living in the mess hall. Considerable wildlife in the form of deer, beaver, partridge, hosts of birds and porcupine has been seen within short distance of the main building and several 12-inch rainbow trout and 18-inch black bass have been taken from the Wolf river near the camp.

Schroeder and Heckrodt paddled, poled, waded and portaged their way in a canoe to the camp via the Wolf river from Post lake and arrived in camp Wednesday. They said shooting the rapids was "just like coming down the side of a mountain."

address strikers. Owens himself will be the principal speaker in a rally at Canton.

It still was difficult to reach an accurate estimate of the number of men back at work at the plants of the four "little steel" corporations against which CIO is striking.

Republic Steel said its plants were operating at about 71 per cent of capacity, as compared with the 77.5 which now prevails in the entire industry. Its four Cleveland plants, however, are still closed.

Production Climbs

The Youngstown production rate, as reported by the magazine Steel, is up 49 points to 75 per cent, due to reopening of Republic and Youngstown Sheet and Tube plants there this week.

Inland Steel, where the strike has been settled, is operating normally, with 12,900 men at work. Bethlehem Steel's Cambria works at Johnstown are operating with a working force which company officials claim is "virtually complete."

Youngstown Sheet and Tube's Indiana plants remained closed. They normally employ about 6,000 men.

To all company statements regarding the back-to-work movement, however, the union retorts that the strike is still effective and that the employment figures are "much exaggerated."

Still Seeks Agreement

Governor Townsend of Indiana is continuing his efforts to effect an agreement between strikers and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. in its Indiana plants, but he said today he was "less hopeful" of a settlement. A company statement last night notified all company workers that the mills in Indiana would be reopened as soon as local authorities provided protection for the men.

The reopening of Republic plants at Massillon was accomplished yesterday without incident, leading to the belief that Republic would attempt to reopen its Cleveland plants next week, possibly under protection of national guardsmen. Governor Davey of Ohio has not indicated how much longer he will maintain troops in the strike zones.

Defer Installation Of Sewer in 4th Ward

Because property owners on Carpenter street object to paving the street, the board of public works at a meeting yesterday afternoon at the city hall decided to defer installation of a sewer on the street. A light coat of chloride was ordered placed on Grant and Steffen streets and on the drives in Erb park for the Fourth of July holidays. The city engineer was instructed to draw plans for a curbing on Memorial drive bridge.

proposals to the Anglo-French naval patrol scheme.

Italy and Germany demanded that belligerent rights be granted to both government and insurgent forces in Spain. France and Britain proposed to fill gaps in the patrol around Spain caused by the withdrawal of Italo-German warships. This both Germany and Italy rejected.

A full non-intervention committee session was called for next week for a showdown of the situation.

French official sources in Paris maintained France and Britain must continue close collaboration in the Spanish non-intervention problem in order to "defend" themselves against the Berlin-Rome partnership.

At Rome the American Civil war became the foundation of an important precedent in Italian eyes as a result of Premier Mussolini's demand for belligerent rights for Spanish insurgents.

Authoritative fascists pointed out that Great Britain accorded such rights to the Confederacy on what was regarded here as much less justification than that claimed by it.

New and 'Harder' Depression Near, Speaker Asserts

National Youth Council Chief Points to Continued Unemployment

Milwaukee—(P)—William W. Hinckley, national council chairman of the American Youth Congress, warned delegates at the congress opening meeting here that young Americans today were facing a new and "harder" depression, "already around the corner."

Hinckley said that between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 persons between the ages of 16 and 25 were unemployed at the present time and that they represented a waste in productive capacities and human resources which no intelligent nation can tolerate.

"Young America cannot forget," Hinckley stated, "that while production has reached the 1929 level, general unemployment is still around the 1,000,000 mark; that wages may be rising, but prices and the cost of living are rising even faster; that, in short, with the last depression hardly gone, the next and harder one is already around the corner."

Prior to Hinckley's address, nearly 2,000 delegates last night heard a message from President Roosevelt in which the chief executive praised the youth congress as an "important instrument" for achieving the intelligent cooperation he said was needed to solve the nation's problems.

Challenging Problems
"The problems and opportunities we face as a nation are numerous, varied and challenging," the president wrote.

"This is no time for complacency or indifference; it is a time when vigorous and intelligent participation in the solution of our common problems is needed from every citizen. The American Youth Congress has become an important instrument in achieving this end."

President Roosevelt said he felt assurance in knowing that "the future of our democracy rests in the hands of a generation alive to the responsibilities which democratic government involves, and well versed in its mechanics."

Hinckley, speaking before the delegates from 48 states and more than a half dozen foreign countries, called for a federal aid to education in the form of scholarships for individuals otherwise unable to stay in school, and urged freedom to teach and to learn.

"Compulsory military training has no place in a nation the majority of whose people hate war," he said.

Miss Loh Tei, leader of the All-Student Chinese Youth movement, said "the question is no longer how to maintain peace, but how to fight for peace."

In ancient China a political association was considered a social evil and an indication of a rebellious spirit against the state.

Appleton Boy Scout Publishes Article In Jamboree Journal

"Jamboree Unity is Foundation for Peace" is the title of an article written by Fred Treize, Jr., and published in the Jamboree Journal, daily publication at national jamboree in Washington, D. C. Treize, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Treize, Sr., 206 N. Meade street, is a member of the Valley Council contingent attending the jamboree and has been named as a reporter on the journal.

"The Scouts of the world, assembling at the Jamboree, after meeting other boys from the four corners of the earth, will help make a solid foundation for the now wavering world," the article reads.

"However, another war can be averted. With the support of the people of the world, the Jamboree and other assemblies for the purpose of having a good time and making friends, this world could undoubtedly be saved a lot of grief from wars," he concludes. Young Treize is on the staff of the high school newspaper and was editor-in-chief of "The Mirror," Roosevelt Junior High school publication.

THOUGHTS FOR THE NATION'S BIRTHDAY

We have been in many respects a nation of arguers, blossom painters and melody makers.

Now, on the Fourth of July, let us get down to some facts. Toss opinions in the river. Facts shall be our meat today.

Why does the farmer till his soil, the doctor treat his patient, the grocer extend his trade or the teacher instruct the young? The answer is that each is actuated by "a profit motive."

Now, that is a fact. We cannot avoid it. No one can get away from it. Or if, in fancy, they do, they are soaring around in a fog and may not land safely.

When men talk of creating for use and not for profit they are merely doing some wishful, and very wishful wishing, but wishy-washy wishing nevertheless.

Even in their very wishing they are being motivated by a profit motive themselves, for profit need not always turn to dollars. It may include applause, or the kindly wishes of neighbors, or the rating that a man receives when he does not permit the money motive to be his only profit motive.

What we call greed and selfishness are merely evidences of a somewhat perverted profit motive. Men have gone to extremes to the damage of themselves and their neighbors as well. The effort is, and always must be, to keep the operation of this profit motive within reasonable bounds if for no other reason than that the one who is absorbed by it entirely is as unattractive to look upon as his acts may be to view.

But, come, we must plunge deeper into the facts.

Consider the history of the last 50 years. In that period of time Americans, and foreigners as well, spurred on by the profit motive, have brought out a great number of inventions. To be exact, 18 of these inventions have become great and extensive industries and in this country alone today employ nearly 10 million men. Yes, 10 million men employed in trades created in the last 50 years!

Now, ask yourself rather quietly, do you suppose a single one of those inventions would ever have been found, to say nothing of developed, under a regime whereby the state owns and operates everything?

These 18 great industries that have developed in America during the last 50 years should be compared to such industries as have developed in the other 60 leading countries of the world during the same period.

Well, compare them. What do you see? What do you find?

You find that not one single one of those countries developed a great industry although you will find that some of the inventors lived in foreign lands.

The radio and the internal combustion engine were invented abroad. But the inventors could not find financial support and came to America where they found it.

Many of the important nations abroad have been taking 50 per cent of their people's income in taxes, largely due to wars and preparations for war. The fact that all this money went to the government quite naturally prevented it from use for development purposes in the hands of individuals. But we are rapidly, altogether too rapidly, following in the footsteps of nations abroad which will mean a sticky condition of development and activity in due course of time. Already the "cut" of our various governments in the earnings of the people is very close to 35 cents on the dollar.

We are living at a time when alleged yardsticks are made to find out whether it wouldn't be nicer for the government to own our utilities.

We have yardsticks, we have rod sticks and even mile sticks but our rulers won't look at them because they do not like the story they tell.

We wouldn't have any public utilities today if we had governmental control of business. Even our post office was originated and put into action by private individuals as a private business.

As evidence of what government may do in the way of advancement consider the fact that after Edison was lighting homes with electricity instead of gas, the following proceedings took place in the British parliament concerning the use of the carbon arc lamp for public purposes.

"Member of parliament: Has the government yet considered the views of Mr. Edison on this subject?"

"Government leader: Mr. Edison has no standing in scientific circles."

Consider the further fact that this government of ours, our own America, refused to buy Morse's telegraph system for $100,000 on the ground that "it could never be made practical."

And consider what a wild mixture of beehive and anthill we would have in this country if our members of the house and senate were to determine whether that fellow down in Ohio who said that "we could ride on air in pneumatic tubes" ought to be put in an asylum or given a chance to go to work.

Every government is largely controlled by public clamor. And the public often is so shortsighted it can hardly see the end of its own nose.

America has been the means of developing these marvelous inventions and lifting mankind up to a much higher plane of civilization almost solely because of our form of government, the fact that heretofore governmental charges were not oppressive, and men who had real vision could find other men who would back them financially simply because the profit motive was recognized for what it is, an inseparable part of mankind.

When you go back over all these facts—and they are facts that cannot be erased—you begin to see and understand why America with a little over 6 per cent of the world's population has itself conceived and created more than half of the material wealth of the world.

And then you may also begin to understand why this wealth is so widely, and generally so fairly, distributed that even the immigration walls that we have resolutely built around this country cannot keep a flood of immigrants from climbing over the Mexican border or sneaking over the Canadian line or dropping off boats in our many harbors and risking their lives to get to shore.

We could go on with facts. There are many more of them. We have for instance the highest standard of living in the world. We mean that the American wears the best clothing, the warmest and most durable, and that he has more of it than the citizen of any other country. He has the best food, and more of it, than the citizen of any other country.

Do you realize that in this country of ours we are today consuming more than half of the coffee produced in the world, more than one-third of its tea, and more than 60 per cent of all its minerals and that other peoples cannot buy these articles because their wealth is taken from them for other purposes?

Are you ready to abandon a system that has brought these results merely because you are surrounded perhaps by waiters and sobbers? And what are waiters and sobbers but those whose profit motive drives them to get their "cut" with the least work?

Well, abandon it all if you will, smash it to pieces if it does you any good, take over the public utilities and wreck them too,—all of these acts come within your privilege.

But we thought we would just tell you the facts anyway.

For it is facts we set out to give you and it is facts we gave you.

A MATTER OF 99 YEARS

On the 12th of March, 1838 Daniel Webster delivered in the United States senate the following declaration:

"There are persons who constantly clamor. They complain of oppression, speculation and pernicious influence of accumulated wealth. They cry out loudly against all banks and corporations, and all means by which small capitalists become united in order to produce important and beneficial results. They carry on mad hostility against all established institutions. They would choke the fountain of industry and dry all streams. In a country of unbounded liberty, they clamor against oppression. In a country of perfect equality, they would move heaven and earth against privilege and monopoly. In a country where property is more evenly divided than anywhere else, they rend the air shouting agrarian doctrines. In a country where wages of labor are high beyond parallel, they would teach the laborer to be an oppressed slave."

"Sir, what can such men want? What do they mean? They can want nothing, sir, but to enjoy the fruits of other men's labor. They can mean nothing but disturbance and disorder, the diffusion of corrupt principles and the destruction of the moral sentiments and moral habits of society."

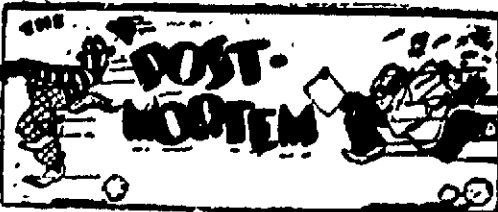

At the time mentioned the nation was running through the foaming rapids of distress commonly known as a depression.

But the rulers of the day had level heads, firm backbone, as well as sound hearts.

No one starved. But the substance of the nation was not wasted and the generations to follow were not mortgaged. Perhaps that is why we came through so well and could build the future so safely.

The quotation from Webster only indicates how similar the problems of each generation may be to those who have preceded it. But the decision must be made by each generation in conformity to its own judgment.

Shall it in a storm steam for safety into the open sea even if the whitecaps seem to be foaming higher there or follow the voice of the blind and the timid and run for shoal waters that barely screen the sharklike reefs?

I'M SCARED TO LEAVE TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. America will celebrate the Fourth of July this weekend and many members of their family will lose their lives and limbs as the result of traffic collisions, water accidents and mishandling of fireworks.

Will you be among those listed as the dead or the injured?

The "killabration" will last three days this year and the largest death toll in history has been predicted by authorities lest extreme caution is used while driving on crowded highways. Swimmers and fishermen are alert to existent water dangers and common sense is employed in touching off hazardous explosives.

—STOO

This time of year represents anything but independence to Timmie, the cocker spaniel, whose sensitive ears vibrate with every nearby firecracker. Last Fourth of July we had to practically excavate the back porch to get him to come out from under.

Mr. Farley's book agents are in Chicago, we hear, and the boys are selling a $250 book (yeah, a book, not an encyclopedia) on the strength of getting political pull, and reaping other indefinite rewards. Or may be I should say selling a book for $250. Or, more exactly, nicking the boys for $250 each to pay up the Democratic National committee deficit. The entire subject has been dealt with quite completely by the editorials at my left.

Your correspondent has been a sucker for book agents on a few occasions, but he might be able to hold up under the sales talk involving a book that costs $250. Even if it does have the owner's name in gold letters and contains the president's signature to lend sanctity to the racket.

I must be getting the Independence Day spirit.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THAT SILLY THING

"She is the silliest thing," they said About the girl that their son had wed.

"What in the world will happen to Jim? She is never the girl for him!"

That was twenty-five years ago. And they have forgotten their words. I know:

For never a better wife drew breath Than this silly thing named Elizabeth!

She kept his house and she held his heart. And made life beautiful with an art

That only a woman can exercise: Affectionate, generous and wise.

Her children grew tall beneath the sun Of her loving kindness, and everyone

Cherished her friendship and longed to be As lovely and capable as she.

No one can tell from the young colt's face Whether or not he will win the race.

And twenty-five years ago, who knew Just what the magic of love would do?

So maybe the old folks should not scoff. But just let the filly scamper off.

For chance and a gleaming wedding ring, Make a woman out of a "silly thing!"

The marriage of Miss Gertrude Kettenhofen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kettenhofen, 609 S. Locust street, and Elmer C. Rehmer, son of John Rehmer, town of Center, took place at 11 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's parsonage. The attendants were Walter Kettenhofen and Alvin Dietrich, both of Appleton.

A new picknick station will be built on the canal bank in Kaukauna, just west of the old Badger mill which was razed early this week, according to Henry Flanagan of Bear Creek.

Bids for building a new hall for Zion Lutheran church were opened at a meeting of the congregation Friday night at the schoolhouse.

Butchers and their employees of Waupaca, Wood and Portage counties and their families will have a joint picnic Sunday, July 10 at the Waupaca County Fair grounds at Weyauwega.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Nomination papers were placed in circulation today for F. J. Rooney as a Democratic candidate for district attorney; for Abe Danielson as a Democratic candidate for clerk of courts; and for Martin Verhagen as a Democratic candidate for sheriff.

The Sunday school contest between Sunday school children of Methodist churches of Appleton, Wausau, Racine, Kenosha, and Fond du Lac closed last Sunday with Appleton winning with a total of 21 points. Wausau and Racine were tied for second place with 14 points each.

Marriage licenses were issued that day to the following couples: Joseph Merkel, Greenville, and Amelia Bolte, Appleton; John Treit, McKinley, and Mary Bruner, Kaukauna.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — One of the neat tricks the wage-hour bill could perform would be to help establish a monopoly in any one industry or in several industries.

Since the bill is intended to benefit labor instead of injuring it, a wise administrator of the measure likely would attempt to avoid such an outcome—but the pressure would be there, both from owners and employees.

For instance, take spinning. Thirty years ago there were comparatively few cotton mills in South Carolina or other southern states. New England did the country's spinning. But there was a supply of cheap labor in the south and cotton was grown nearby, so mills began opening there.

Now suppose the present wage-hour bill had been law at the time the southern drift started. Undoubtedly the New England millers, fully supported by their employees, would have asked that minimum wage levels be established to retard, if not prevent, the opening of new mills in the south. New England likely would argue that such a course was wise, and a good case can be made against permitting indiscriminate establishment of new competitive enterprises.

Yet when an industry is protected from competition it becomes a monopoly — and the country has long been on record against operation of monopolies.

Old Fight — But regardless of whether the new wage-hour bill should become an instrument of furthering monopolistic practices, the country still faces the problem. It has dealt with it with little success for 50 years.

The old-time Sherman and Clayton acts sought to break up monopoly. Some contend they merely drove it under ground, beyond the reach of regulation. NRA took a step in this direction by inviting it to come into the open, subject to a combination of self regulation and public regulation. NRA bogged down for multiple reasons.

NEED NEW LEADERSHIP

Editor Post-Crescent — Recently we were reminded by our politicians of the fact that one third of the nation is ill-clad, ill-fed and ill-housed. To agree with them that such an abominable condition exists in this land of potential plenty is the only sensible thing to do. However it seems that such a repeated admission of failure to usher in an era of abundance, via the political route, is becoming monotonous. It is 8 years since the United States saw the peak of productivity which was greater than ever witnessed by any civilization and we are all familiar with the morning after effects. Despair stalked the land and the alibis were loud and profuse. A new deal was the order of the day resulting in the changing of political horses which was supposed to set things right by some miraculous means.

The most interesting experiment was the destruction of crops and cattle which must have invited the laughter of the gods. When I attended school my mathematics teacher insisted that if you have 2 apples and then add 2 more you will have 4 apples, in other words your quantity of apples was increased. However it appears that in government mathematics, to increase the goods of its citizens they do exactly the opposite and subtract from what they already have. I shall never forgive my mathematics teacher for not advising me of this distinction between political mathematics and ordinary every day mathematics.

From the changing of the gold content of the dollar to the suggested changing of the supreme court we have gone a long way until today we have production at approximately 1929 level. This was the point on the chart so ardently hoped for by economists, but even today we read in the papers of red light signals to the effect that in the next couple of years we are to experience another depression. I quite agree with these reports but cannot help wondering what steps are being taken by our present political leaders to cushion the next fall. One look at the national debt structure, increasing yearly to say nothing of state and municipal debt leads one to think that the future children of the nation are amply cared for—in a debt way. Installment buying has helped push the national debt up and according to latest reports are to be increasing. The unemployed and relief we still have with us and any governmental attempts to pare the public works results in violent protests, for it is clear that the states cannot carry the load, and if you doubt this ask your politician.

It is becoming increasingly evident that America is preparing for a turn in the road. Present political parties are proving inadequate to solve today's social problems, but let us hope that when we reach the turn and social change is demanded by the population, America will be prepared with a leadership of magnitude corresponding to the emergency as none of the European brands of misdirection must be perpetrated on this continent.

CAN WE RESERVE DEGENERATION?

Degeneration is deterioration, sinking from a higher to a lower level or type, a retrogressive pathological process in cells and tissues in consequence of which functioning power declines or is lost and the living substance becomes converted into an inert mass. Here we are referring particularly to cardiovascular degeneration (CVD for short) or the everyday slow wearing out of heart and arteries that is the result of the familiar manifestations of old age.

When your process which is dragging you back to the earth is not reversible. But taken in time, that is, in the first five or ten years, CVD responds to good hygiene and good medicine as favorably as does any other chronic ailment. A great many individuals who have followed more or less rigidly the Corrective Protective Diet (details will be mailed on request if you inclose stamped envelope bearing your address) declare that they have been made to feel and look ten years younger. A regimen such as the Corrective Protective Diet may fairly be called the Regeneration Regimen, mainly for the reason that it restores to the diet a considerable proportion of the vitamins and mineral elements the everyday diet of most Americans lack, and also because it cuts down the total caloric intake from 20 to 30 per cent, and that in itself is favorable to regeneration or at least it arrests the degeneration due to constant overload of carbohydrate in blood and tissues.

After all, who cares how many years a person has lived? The important questions are, how old does he feel, how old does he look, and most important of all, how old does he act physically and mentally?

I do not take too seriously these claims of five or ten years' rejuvenation from five or ten months of right eating. One reason why I discount such testimonials is that I have received a good many solemn assurances that a year or so of the iodine ration has actually restored the original color to gray hair. Now I do not believe gray hair ever has its natural color restored—the I'd have mine dyed by a reliable hair dresser if I believed it might improve my appearance or help me to keep my job. But I think I understand what prompts these middle-aged folk to make such assertions. Take two persons of, say, 45 years of age, one having a clear, smooth, healthy skin, the other having a dry, harsh, scaly or pallid and perhaps wrinkled skin. Let them both wear hair tinged with gray or wholly gray. The casual observer will almost invariably say the one with the pale skin has the grayer hair. I believe the iodine ration makes the forty-year-old man or woman who is a bit stale feel and look younger, with a better complexion, and the better complexion relieves the grayness of the hair.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Arteriosclerosis
Business woman, 61. Three years ago oculist found the small arteries in back of eye showed arteriosclerosis. Am I right in assuming the arteriosclerosis must be far advanced when it shows in the eyes? (S. F. M.)

Answer—On the contrary, often the arteries in the retina are the first to show signs of arteriosclerosis. Probably few persons sixty years old are without some arteriosclerosis. Send ten cents coin and stamped envelope bearing your address, for booklet "Regeneration Regimen."

Sun Bathing
A says sun bathing is injurious and cites famous doctors who have condemned it. B thinks a tanned skin is better than a palid white skin. (C. S.)

Answer—In all sun bathing the ideal is to tan without burning, and this is achieved by patient adherence to a schedule of gradually increasing duration and extent of exposure. The ultraviolet of sunlight imparts to sterols in the skin the vitamin D influence, and this is at least one reason why sun bathing is a healthful practice. (Copyright, 1937.)

Your Birthday
If July 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 A. M. to 12:45 P. M., from 2:45 to 4:45 P. M., and from 6:45 to 8:45 P. M. The danger periods are from 8:45 to 10:45 A. M., from 4:45 to 6:45 P. M., and from 8:45 to 10:45 P. M.

July 4 is regarded by many as being inseparably linked with the birth of true democracy and personal liberties. The great danger this day is that with the spirit of independence animating many persons, numerous abuses under the cloak of self-government, self-direction, as well as self-reliance, are liable to occur. Any restraining influence exerted in your behalf, inspired by a desire to keep you from doing the wrong thing, should not be resented. This is a day that requires your maintaining a tolerant attitude towards constructive criticism, particularly in personal usages or customs are involved. Married and engaged couples, as well as those whom Cupid has brought together, must avoid practical jokes this day, if they expect everything to function smoothly.

If a woman and July 4 is your birthday, you probably are a healthy, progressive and vigorous person. You should be very fond of the water and water sports. You have very little patience with any opposition to your ideas or desires. A philosophy of your own will help you over life's rough spot. You may be inclined to trust virtual strangers too readily in business matters, so be careful in this respect. You ought to have the gift of handling money wisely. You are instinctively very religious and charitable. You most likely have many altruistic ideas, and from some of them a great amount of good will come. It may be in educational, artistic, journalistic or theatrical work that fortune will smile upon you. You are the type to marry successfully, and make some man very happy.

The child born on July 4, during its school days will evidently discover the secret of popularity. This youngster ought to be very clever, versatile and ambitious. Success is likely to be its reward for honest efforts.

If a man and July 4 is your natal day, you love nature and gardening, if not absorbed in some mechanical or scientific pursuit. As a naturalist, agriculturist, astronomer, chemist, lawyer, writer, promoter or financier your achievements may be noteworthy.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York — We were crowded about one of the telegraph operators in the sports department, getting the play-by-play on the Yankee-Detroit game, when the instrument spluttered and then began to bark in a sharp staccato. The operator jerked up his head as if he had been slapped.

"What was that?" I asked. "Did Greenberg hit another home run?" The operator turned with a look of startled disbelief on his face. "No," he said incredulously, "that was a flash from Los Angeles. Jean Harlow just died!"

That's how the news came to us—one of those sharp, startling stabs that leave you momentarily stunned and incredulous. . . . There has been a notable series of those sudden flashes in recent years. . . . Rockne, Paul Bern, . . . Will Rogers and Wiley Post. . . . John Gilbert, Richard Boleslavsky, Irving Thalberg, . . . And Tex Guinan, and Lilyan Tashman. . . . There have been others.

After the word came, I went back the "morgue" and got out a picture that was published in the newspapers everywhere back sometime in 1932. It was the scene of a Hollywood wedding, and there were four people in it. . . . If you recall the one I mean, you'll remember Harlow, the radiant bride, cutting a wedding cake. . . . To the left stood the groom, Paul Bern, and near him was John Gilbert, come to stand up as best man for his friend. . . . The fourth person, and looking somewhat like Bern, was Irving Thalberg.

There was story with a happy beginning, but you could ransack the fiction shelves of the world without finding one with a more macabre ending.

Bern was the first to go. Known as the "Father Confessor" of Hollywood, he was found dead, a suicide, in one of the most inexplicable tragedies in Hollywood history. . . . This was the man whom Barbara La Marr had called "the understanding heart."

Then Gilbert, the restless and impetuous. Unable to live without the world's adulation to feed on, he died, ironically, alone and unattended, save by a paid nurse. It was a drak ending for the screen's great lover who perhaps had captured the imagination of more people than any other star.

The surprise, however, in the passing of this trio of men, all financial successes, was the death of Thalberg, although a few friends had long realized his failing health. He was "the boy genius of the industry," and he was outward bound before most people had any inclination that he was ill.

And finally Harlow herself, the platinum-haired kid who brought a new type of blond beauty to Hollywood and became a star.

It would be interesting to know the emotions of the man who caught those four within the scope of his camera on that night five

No 'Compromise' In New Measure On Supreme Court

Bill Contains Basic Principle of Original Proposal

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — President Roosevelt's idea of a "compromise" is a bill that changes the words slightly but gives him exactly the objective he set out originally to accomplish.

When Mr. Roosevelt said he would not compromise on the bill to "pack" the supreme court, he meant it. Examination of the measure introduced in his behalf in the senate shows clearly that, if it is passed, the president will be able to swing the balance of power in the Supreme Court of the United States so as to have a vote conceivably of at least 6 to 5.

It has been taken for granted that Justices Cardozo, Stone and Brandeis would uphold much of the New Deal legislation because they have uniformly dissented from decisions of their brethren on the court. Add to these three present justices an additional three justices, as made possible under the so-called compromise, and here might readily be six votes on the side of the Roosevelt policies if the same principles are placed before the court as in some of the cases decided against the administration in the last two years by a 5 to 4 or 6 to 3 vote.

Provisions of Bill
The new bill would permit the appointment in the next six months of two additional justices along the lines of the president's original plan and one justice to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Justice Van Devanter. Three appointments in six months would be enough to accomplish what the president wants, even though the new measure does restrict his other appointments to one a year, matching each justice who attains the age of 75.

The so-called compromise retains the basic principle to which Mr. Roosevelt has clung tenaciously since his message to congress on Feb. 5. It provides that when a justice reaches a certain age—75 now instead of 70—an additional justice may be appointed.

The fact that only one a year can be appointed in that way and that the age has been advanced from 70 to 75 is of no consequence when the practical effect is considered. Actually what is important to Mr. Roosevelt is that justices who conform to his idea of what the constitution means shall be in the majority on the highest bench. That objective is accomplished by the new bill because it enables Mr. Roosevelt to appoint the justices who would hold the balance of power.

Incidentally, the new bill sticks to the president's first plan of a supreme court of 15 members so that, even on the possible size of the court, Mr. Roosevelt has not given ground. His willingness to appoint one a year does not weaken his position any, because it happens that there are two justices who are 75 years or over. The scheme of getting enough justices to swing the balance of power for the administration is clearly retained in the "compromise" just as in the original.

Opponents to Stand Firm
For the present, the supreme court, if the new bill passes, would consist of 11 members, and, while the number can revert some day to 9, for practical purposes in the next four years the president would have the opportunity to name the kind of justices he wants to sit on the bench.

Opponents of the president's original plan will, of course, not be deceived by the new proposal. Some of the middle-of-the-roads who have been more or less on the fence may think that they can win presidential favor and also keep their constituents in line and hence may vote for the bill. But the question arises whether the people back home will see through the so-called "compromise" and demand no tampering with the court. Already administration leaders have let it be known that they will not try to get the original plan through the house if the "compromise" passes in the senate. The truth is they do not have to revert to the original bill, for enough of it, to all intents and purposes, is preserved so that, if Mr. Roosevelt gets the "compromise" through the senate, he can then easily get it through the house and his victory will be just as complete as if the original measure he transmitted to congress had been adopted.

Opponents of the president's "packing" scheme will probably filibuster against the new bill, but this is never a strong reed on which to lean in a major battle. If the people of the United States who expressed themselves before to their senators and representatives have had any change of heart on the idea of a controlled judiciary, the senators who are undecided as to what to do would probably appreciate knowing. Certainly the necessity for advising congress of public opinion on the new bill would seem to be just as important as it was when the original measure was presented, hence it is quite likely that Capitol Hill will be receiving a lot of mail in the immediate future.

Sewage Disposal Plant Is Almost Ready to Operate

Expect Work at New Plant Will Start Within Short Time

Kaukauna — Processing of sewage in Kaukauna can be started in about a week, although it is not probable that any will be run into the plant's settling tanks for about ten days or two weeks, Harry Heck, resident engineer, said today.

All major construction work and installation of machinery has been completed, and most of the remaining work will consist of final construction details and in adjusting the machinery. Outside equipment is ready for operation, and as soon as the connection with the main line of the interceptor sewer is made, sewage could be processed.

Biggest items in the completion of work at the plant are the cleaning up of the outfall, or outlet for liquid into the river; painting, which will take about two weeks more; and the connecting of the main line sewer to the plant.

Some small piping jobs are yet to be done and the heating system is not yet completed. Stairs have to be installed in the building, and finishing work in the office and laboratory is still to be done.

The outfall is completed and the plant could operate with the outfall as it is, but state law requires that all obstruction near it be taken away before it is used. The P. and D. general contractors, will take out the coffer dam that was used at the time the outfall was constructed, next week. The outfall is a 24-inch cast iron pipe extending 105 feet into the river bed. It releases the purified liquids that have been taken from the sewage.

Exterior painting, consisting mostly of the window frames, was finished yesterday. Inside the plant the first coat of red lead over the machinery is partly completed.

Make Connection
Construction of the connection of the main line sewer to the outside processing equipment is in progress and will be completed next week. When this is done the outside units of the plant can go to operation.

Besides the painting and installing of stairs on the interior, finishing of concrete surfaces is yet to be done. Cement walls will be ground down to a smooth finish before they are painted.

Exterior paint is a dull blue color, while the color scheme on the interior will be a combination of two shades of green. All concrete and brick walls and floors will be painted. Machinery will all be done in an aluminum color.

Buy your washer UP SIDE DOWN

All Washers may look much the same from the top, but the top seldom wears out. It's the part underneath that you don't see... "the heart of the Washer" which determines whether or not the Washer you buy will give you the service and satisfaction you have the right to expect.

The gear case and Washer chassis construction are very important factors in the life and efficiency of any Washer. That is why we say "Buy Your Washer Upside Down" and you will buy an ABC.

WASHER SALE

View of ABC Washer Chassis and Gear Case Construction—This heavy, one-piece steel plate is electrically welded to the rim of the base in fourteen places to make it absolutely rigid. This one-piece, all-steel, girder-type construction eliminates any possibility of alignment and provides a much stronger and sturdier base on which to mount the ABC porcelain tub and wringer part base. The close coupled drive mechanism eliminates lost motion as is sometimes experienced with belt driven mechanisms.

View of the ordinary type chassis construction found on many Washers—The entire weight of the gear case, plus the weight of the motor, is suspended from two pieces of angle-iron. Experience has proved that the weight of the motor and gear case, with the strain of the Washer in action, causes these angle-irons to work loose or "give" in time causing repairs, replacements, or the need of another Washer.

BOOK REVIEW Paints Vivid Picture of Life Under Dictatorship

By Jean Wiley Thickens

BREAD AND WINE. By Ignazio Silone.
Because of the obvious political trends in our erstwhile-democracy today, "Bread and Wine" by Ignazio Silone should be of tremendous interest to millions of persons in the United States, for it presents a vivid picture of existence under a dictatorship. It is the Book of the Month Club selection for June as well as having been selected by two book clubs in Europe, one in Holland and one in Switzerland. It has been dramatized in New York under the title "Bitter Stream." Mr. Silone's first novel, "Fontamara," which appeared a few years ago, won for its author instant fame and has been translated into twenty foreign languages.
Several years ago Sinclair Lewis wrote a novel called "It Can't Happen Here" which purported to show an imaginary existence in our own country under a Fascist government. At the time it seemed rather far-fetched but as conditions now stand, it is not far from the truth in several respects. Mr. Silone's fascinating book gives an authentic picture of conditions under a brutal dictatorship which already exists, in Italy. It is not too far a jump, and requires not too much imagination, to envisage a somewhat similar situation today in "the land of the free and the home of the brave."
Ignazio Silone is an Italian of aristocratic birth who, because of his intense interest in liberty and justice for all, is now an exile in Switzerland and is forced to carry on his activities in the interest of Italian liberty from a distance. Each time he has attempted to return to his own country he has been ruthlessly persecuted and, and his only brother was beaten to death by the Fascists.
The story has no consecutive plot for the young hero, an Italian of fine family whom the author calls Pietro Spina (but who is obviously Silone himself) has almost no personal life. His heart and all his energies are dedicated to the accomplishment of his ends: freedom and improved economic conditions for his own countrymen.
Says Dorothy Canfield in her criticism of this masterly novel: "throughout the absorbing, exciting plot, adventure, flight, pursuit, escape, what is at stake is not the life or death or happiness of any human being—what is at stake is human freedom. The hero of this noble book is liberty."
The book is rich in brief, scintillating flashes of humor which depicted most vividly the amusing and pathetic superstitions of the peasants; their ignorance, simplicity, complete lack of moral sense, and above all their deep and abiding fear of the government and the august being who rules their lives. He gives no thought to their welfare because his mind is occupied constantly with his personal glory and his imperialistic aims.
Pietro Spina is forced, when captured by government spies seems imminent to masquerade as a parish priest from a neighboring com-

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Somebody ought to take Dorothy Lamour aside and tell her there's plenty of time.

She doesn't think so. That's why she's working the way she does.

Between radio and picture, the girl keeps busy practically all the time. She gets off the set, rushes home to dinner, and then rushes to radio rehearsal. After that it's time for bed.

Work, sleep, and eat is the Lamour program. No time to play. No time to go night-clubbing. No time for prolonged relaxation, unless you count those periods between movie shots.

Sounded pretty feverish to me. This life of hers as she outlined it. I asked her what was the big idea. Was she aiming for a million before she was 20, or what?

"No, I'm 22 already. It's just that you don't know in this business how long you'll last. Today you're here and tomorrow you're in the discard. I want to make all I can while I can, that's all."

She came to pictures a year ago from radio. She won a beauty contest once, down in New Orleans but that didn't send her to Hollywood. She was singing with Herb Kay's orchestra—he's her husband now—when her voice brought in the talent scout. Her first picture was "Jungle Princess." She stepped to the front in the seductress role in "Swing High, Swing Low," the girl who lured MacMurray away from Lombard. She didn't like the part, but admits it did her good.

As if she hadn't enough to do already, she's talking about trying the stage, going into a stock company. She wants to learn how to face an audience. She's afraid of it now.

The first time she sang before an audience, in a Chicago hotel, she forgot the words and had to stall through the number. The same thing happened when she made her first appearance with Kay's orchestra. That time she started to run off the stage. Kay called her back, made her keep trying until she sang through without faltering. She got applause but it didn't cure her.

It's funny, but she doesn't mind the audience on a movie set. She can stand visitors, hundreds of extras, all the workers that crowd around the sets. Because, she says, they're not an audience. They're part of the gang.

It's to be "Idol of the Crowds" instead of "Hell on Ice," hell being a naughty word now. . . . Isabel Jewell is the smart one. Bought a tailored outfit five years ago and couldn't wear it because it was too big. Had it on the other day, and looked like a million, because it was back in style just as the time she had gotten up to it. . . . Other weighty questions involved Harriet Hilliard. She lost a pound a day for five days through wearing a 33-pound movie gown.

Millers Win and Tie Gehrkes for First Half Title

Playoff Will be Decided by Outcome of Second Round of Play

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE First Half Standings

Bordens	2	3	.400
Edisons	1	4	.200
Plywoods	1	4	.200

New London—Millers High Lifes set themselves alongside Gehrkes Brothers Hardware to share first half championship honors in the City Industrial Softball league when they won over Bordens, 5 to 3, in the last game of the first series under the lights at the city ball park last night. Whether the tie will be to be played off will be decided by the outcome of the second half which is scheduled to open Monday night with a game between Hamiltons and the Edisons.

A good crowd turned out to watch the High Lifes fight to hold a narrow lead throughout the game and use a bit of strategy in the last inning to bag the game. With two Bordens batters down and two left on bases as the result of a fielders choice and a single, pitcher Ullrich allowed heavy hitter Felsner to take his base on balls. Orr Glandt was the victim for the kill with the short infield drives he was hitting all evening. He was kept busy fielding at third base last night and responded to eight assists at first.

The High Lifes accumulated an encouraging lead in the fourth inning when Wells allowed five hits and a spasm of poor fielding accounted for three High Life runs. Shortell opened the frame with a triple. Ted Ebert drove in another run the next inning with another triple. Earlier in the game Schimke counted for Bordens with the same feat. Herman Platte, Jr., scored the only other extra base hit, a double.

Club Hears About Safety Measures for Appleton

New London — Sergeant Carl Radke, head of the traffic squad of the Appleton Police department, and L. M. Lamkin, manager of the Manawa Telephone company, were guest speakers at the meeting of the Lutheran Men's club at the church parlors Thursday evening.

Radke explained the safety measures in force in Appleton and the drive for safety education in all its phases. Lamkin viewed the future of small towns and prophesied they would continue to grow and expand at a greater rate in the near future than during the present trend. Large cities are too crowded and people like to enjoy at least a backyard, he said. The advantages of more individual education in the small town were pointed out favorably against the mass education of the metropolitan areas.

The club decided to play softball each Thursday evening with the older men's league at Washington High school during the months of July and August. A new program committee will be responsible for the next meeting in August with Harry Young, chairman, assisted by G. A. Vandree and Harold Pieper.

Knapsteins Hope To Cop Loop Lead

Marion and Shawano To be New London Week-end Opponents

New London—With the first half championship of the Wolf Valley league still wide open the Knapstein boys are hoping to clear their way to the top in games over the weekend.

Marion will play here under the lights Sunday night and should not give the Brews too much trouble. Tip Krohn will pitch if his ankle is not too sore. He turned it while running bases in the Weyauwega game last Sunday and played an easy game on it Thursday night.

Monday afternoon the New London club will travel to Shawano for more easy picking, according to past showings of the Indians. What happens to Clintonville in the double encounter with Waupaca and Manawa tomorrow will decide whether or not the Brews battle the Trunkers for the championship when they meet in a postponed playoff at Clintonville's new lighted ball park next Thursday night.

But Weyauwega may possibly take Manawa and Neopit and thereby prove the obstacle to New London's ambitions.

New London Personals
New London—L. E. Cole, New London insurance agent, has won special recognition for the volume of new insurance he secured the past year and will attend the annual convention of the O. L. Line Life Insurance company at Chicago July 9 and 10.

Miss Betty Madel, Chicago, and Miss Ruth Sullivan, Milwaukee, are spending two weeks visiting at the Earl Meiklejohn home.

Miss Alice Bernmann and Art Falk were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wilz at Menasha Thursday evening when the latter entertained for their daughter, Dorothy, who will be married today to Anton Brzycki of Menasha. Miss Bernmann also was a guest at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Keisner at Menasha Wednesday. Mrs. Keisner was formerly Miss Catherine Wilz.

$11,000 School Fund Approved

Band Appropriations and Report on New Addition Discussed at Manawa

Manawa—With the exception of discussions regarding band appropriations and the report of the high school addition building committee, only routine business occupied the attention of those who attended the annual high school district meeting here. Of 83 votes cast for clerk at the election, Mrs. W. Irvine, received 82 to succeed herself.

At the business session which followed, A. C. Lindsay was named chairman. The financial statement and a report of the auditing committee was approved. It was also voted to raise $11,000 for school purposes this coming year, an increase of $4,500 over a year ago. About half the increase was needed to pay bonds and interest for the new addition.

A report of the building committee composed of William Feathers, Elmer Eder, and A. Sturm was read by Mr. Eder, which disclosed that the new addition cost almost exactly $24,000, of which $18,000 was furnished by the district. The remainder was a WPA grant of labor and materials. A discussion followed and it was voted to have the report published in The Manawa Advocate. The committee was then discharged.

The Matinee club was entertained at the Carvers clubhouse on County Trunk X on Thursday with Mrs. Ray Micklejohn as hostess. High honors were awarded to Mrs. Laura Racker and Mrs. Fred Zeichert.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid society met with Mrs. Max Hensel Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Loss, their son, Dr. Fred Loss, and his son, James, New London, visited here for several days. Upon their return to their home they were accompanied by Mrs. L. C. Loss's brother, Richard Kelley, who will make an indefinite visit with them.

A daughter was born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Klug at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Kosanke have as their guests, Mrs. Gerhard Pieper, Fond du Lac; Mrs. E. Hennrich, Denver, Colo.; the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Oehlert, Kaukauna, and Mrs. E. E. Hoyer, Beaver Dam.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ostholder of Minneapolis, Minn., arrived here Thursday to spend a month with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rodhe.

C. M. Nelson, who operates the Fairway Grocery, was taken to a Milwaukee hospital for treatment on Thursday.

Union at Mill to Choose Officers

More Than 500 Enrolled in Independent Organization at Kimberly

Kimberly — Hourly employees of the Independent union of the Kimberly mill will hold election of officers the latter part of next week. The election will take place in the old village hall. With the large number of applications received for membership Thursday evening the organization now has over 500 members. Questions pertaining to the union and the Wagner law were answered by the organization committee to individuals who inquired.

Chief of Police John Bernady has issued a plea to parents to follow the rules of safety in permitting children to shoot off fireworks July 4-5 in order to prevent mishaps and other fire works prove fatal to children each year. The village has never had a major accident over the July 4 holiday, the chief stated.

He also pointed out that motorists should use extra safety precautions as the traffic will be unusually heavy over the weekend. Only one dog was locked up in the village pound by the special deputy during June, the chief of police announced Thursday.

A large crowd attended the band concert in the park Thursday evening under the direction of Prof. M. J. Heyne were played which included overtures, marches and popular music. "Songs of Scotland" was also featured on the program. Ada Schenandoah, Neenah, who has been attending a college at Muskogee, Okla., is home on her vacation and will play with the band during the summer months. Her father and sister are also band members.

Ask Congress to Aid Wisconsin Indians
Madison—The Wisconsin assembly, in the closing hours of the 11th session of the legislature, completed action on a petition to congress to provide aid for the care and support of indigent Wisconsin Indians, "who have become an ever increasing burden on the state of Wisconsin and its subdivisions."

It is "eminently unfair," said the authors of the petition, including Assemblymen Mark S. Catlin and William Rohan of Outagamie county, and William Sweeney of Brown county, "to place this burden on the locality where the Indians reside."

According to the assemblymen, "some northern counties more than 90 per cent of the Indian population is on relief, in the ratio of three to every white citizen on relief."

Neenah Merchants To Play 2 Games Sunday, Monday

Meet Appleton at Washington Park and Prison Team at Waupun

Neenah — Neenah Merchants will engage in two baseball battles over the weekend, a Northern Valley league contest with Appleton here Sunday and a non-league tilt with the prison team at Waupun Monday.

Sunday's game will be called at 2 o'clock at Washington park, Neenah. The Merchants have a fighting chance for the pennant this year and are still hot on the heels of the Oshkosh Cubs who are holding down the top rung of the league ladder.

Bob Jerome is scheduled to hurl the Appleton fray with Jimmy Christofferson behind the plate in the absence of Handler, who injured his hand two weeks ago. It is still anybody's race and, though Oshkosh has the edge at present, there is still plenty of time for a scramble for the title.

Monday's battle will be an exhibition with all players who make the trip seeing action. The prisoners have a strong lineup and have played together for several years. The Appleton team will be conducted through the prison following the game and will be served a special meal.

Neenah — Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Terrien and daughters, Marilla and Gloria, 508 Nicolet boulevard, are leaving Saturday for Green Lake where they will spend a week at Beachmore cottage.

Mrs. Carl Jersild, 210 High street, Neenah, left today for a week's visit with her son, Howard Jersild, in Chicago.

Neenah Personals

Neenah — The weekend holiday and the opening of the Smith park and municipal bathing beaches will give the city's swimmers the time and places to do their stuff.

Al Kolasinski has been appointed life guard at Smith park and Fritz Leibl at the municipal beach. These two young men will be on duty from noon until 8 o'clock at night, according to the schedule announced by the park board.

A crowd of swimmers estimated at close to 300 was at Smith park yesterday afternoon. Three rafts, one at the water's edge and two out in the river, are in use. The safe swimming area is prescribed by cables suspended from floating kees.

Rocks along the shoreline at Smith park have been picked up and piled and the wading pool for children cleaned out.

Begin Remodeling of Congregational Church

Menasha — Work on the new ceiling in the parlors at the First Congregational church has been started by the Wolf and Larson company of Neenah which this week was awarded the contract for complete redecoration of the building.

12 Swimming "Don'ts" are Suggested by Jorgenson

Neenah — Ole Jorgenson, beach superintendent, today suggested 12 swimming "don'ts" designed to reduce the average of 187 accidental drownings reported in Wisconsin in the last five years.

With the hot weather driving hundreds of children and adults to the Municipal Bathing beach, it is difficult work for life guards to watch each individual. Bathers should learn to protect themselves by not doing the things that cause accidents, Jorgenson said.

Following are the superintendent's suggestions:

Do not swim until an hour after eating, to avoid cramps.

Do not enter the water in an overheated condition.

Do not swim alone.

Do not dive into water of unknown depth.

Do not take swimming lessons in deep or running water.

Do not remain in the water after becoming chilled.

Do not swim long distances unless accompanied by a boat.

Do not dive from a boat unless a companion remains aboard.

Do not tax your endurance in the water.

Do not endanger or frighten other bathers by dares or pranks. They may not be good swimmers.

Learn to float. It may save your life in an emergency.

Temperature of the lake varies with the temperature of the air, however, the water has been over 70 degrees with the exception of one day when the temperature dropped to 68 degrees. The water is tested twice daily and is considered to be in good condition.

Mrs. Herrick presented the flag to the corps at the last meeting, June 16, at which time it was decided to return the flag to the former Cook home, now the Y. W. C. A.

In accepting the flag for the Y. W. C. A. Miss Huber expressed the appreciation of the board of directors and declared that the association was especially glad to receive this flag which had been the property of the man who had given his home to the organization.

Urges Farmers To Organize to Get Fair Prices

Gehrman Says No Other Industry Allows Others To Determine Income

Washington — (P) — Representative Bernard J. Gehrman, Meilen, Wis., Progressive, told farmers this week they must organize if they would obtain just prices for their products.

He said that on the Plymouth, Wis., cheese market, "monopolies fix the price both to the producer and the consumer."

"I blame the farmers, of course," he said, "for not organizing so as to control their own commodity, their investment, and their labor."

"No other industry in the world today allows the price of the product, their money, their investment, their brains, their toil, to be fixed by others. Agriculture is the only industry that seems willing to produce, and then take whatever price somebody will offer for their goods."

"The farmers, because of lack of foresight to organize and control their own production, allow a monopoly such as the National Dairy company, which is a holding company and controls every major dairy distributing agency in the United States, to fix the prices of their products."

He told the house the federal trade commission should have moved long ago to "dissolve this gigantic dairy trust that holds a stranglehold on the price of dairy products."

"The farmers should become better organized so that they may someday say, 'it costs me so much to produce these products and unless you pay me that price, you cannot have it,'" Gehrman said.

"The producer and the consumer must eliminate these unnecessary middle men for the benefit of all concerned."

He said the Plymouth, Wis., cheese auctions are "a ham" where the "highest bidder sets the price of cheese for the United States."

A few big buyers, he says, get together and agree on who is going to bid on the cheese.

"There never was any competition unless they happened to have a batch of cheese they wanted to unload on some little fellow who was foolish enough to overbid them."

Farm Tenancy Bill Gehrman voiced his views while debating the farm tenancy bill, which he said is a "step in the right direction but does not go nearly far enough."

He agreed with other speakers that price fixing monopolies "have driven the farmers of the country, especially the dairy farmers, to their present plight."

Wisconsin, he said, about 12 per cent of the farmers were renters a few years ago. He placed the figure now at 40 per cent.

Thomas O'Malley, Edgewood High school student at Madison, Wis., toured Washington this week with his teacher, Sister M. Carmela, his reward for being one of five students among 65,000 in 500 schools who won recognition in a news contest sponsored by a magazine.

Comment on "Third Term" Reserved or protesting comment from Wisconsin congressmen who would voice their reaction greeted the recent statement of Governor Earle of Pennsylvania proposing a third term for President Roosevelt.

Comment included: Representative M. K. Reilly, Fond du Lac, Wis.: "The campaign is a long ways ahead. This is no time at all to be forecasting who the candidates will be."

Representative Garner Withrow, La Crosse: "I doubt if this would be advisable. It would establish a bad precedent and it would be unfair to President Roosevelt to take such 'gaffs' for four more years."

Representative George Schneider, Appleton: "Governor Earle made a foolish statement, a colossal blunder."

Representative Merlin Hull, Black River Falls: "It was an unwise statement."

Representative Gerald Boileau, Wausau: "I don't think President Roosevelt has any intention of seeking a third term."

Representative Gehrman: "It's a lot of talk and it's too early for such things."

Representative Harry Southoff,

Farmers Divided in Opinions on Plan to Install Parking Meters

Farmers and residents of nearby towns who do their shopping in Appleton apparently are quite divided in their opinions relative to the wisdom of installing parking meters on College avenue in Appleton. Of 20 farmers interviewed yesterday afternoon by the Post-Crescent's Inquiring Reporter, nine were opposed to the meters, four were for them and seven were non-committal—that is they weren't much concerned whether they were installed.

Most of them said they had paid little attention to city's action in accepting a plan to install the meters for a trial period of six months and were unfamiliar as to just how the machines worked.

Several expressed themselves as being much opposed when the plan was explained, while others said they avoided traffic on the avenue by parking on streets off College avenue.

The majority of business men on College avenue, where the council has voted to try the meters between Durkee and Superior streets, are opposing the machines and have filed petitions with the city council asking that the plan be dropped.

Following are statements made by the persons interviewed: Miss Leona Rader, route 2, New London—Parking meters are all right, but I can't see where they would be of any particular benefit.

Mrs. Robert Finger, 326 W. Spring street, New London—I am definitely opposed to parking meters.

R. J. Braun, route 1, Menasha—It would be worth a nickel to be able to park in front of a store in which you wanted to shop.

Send Business Elsewhere Miss Helen Totzke, route 1, Hortonville—Parking meters would be likely to send business secured from out of town elsewhere.

William Johns, route 1, DePere—People shouldn't have to pay when they are giving business to the merchants.

Robert Jamison, route 1, Appleton—We shouldn't be penalized for wanting to park on a public street.

Joseph Rathack, Greenville, I would be willing to pay five cents for a desired parking place on the avenue.

Mrs. J. Remick, New London—I am not in favor of paying for parking on College avenue.

Leonard Bentle, route 1, Hortonville—Installation of parking meters would drive business away from the city.

No Difference Conrad Noe, route 4, Appleton—It makes no difference to me as I always park on a side street.

Mrs. Raymond Hackel, route 3, Seymour—I am absolutely opposed to paying any money for parking on any street in the city.

Lyle Richl, route 2, Shioc-ton—Parking meters probably would be a good thing. You would be able to get near stores where you wanted to buy.

Miss Norena Benning, New London—I think use of parking meters would be all right.

William B. Metoxen, route 2, DePere—It doesn't make much difference to me. I come to Appleton little and always manage to find a parking place.

Wouldn't Mind Mrs. Arnold Reynolds, route 1, Oshkosh—I wouldn't mind parking meters. If you were in a hurry you could use them and if not find a parking space on a side street.

Mrs. Earl Curry, New London—I would not be in favor of parking

Building Permits

Six building permits were issued yesterday by the building inspection department. The permits were granted to Herman Schultz, 1326 W. Prospect avenue, enclosure porch, $250; Charles Klein, 1019 W. Packard street, garage, $100; Mrs. Katherine Leith, 426 S. Story street, addition to garage, $75; Paul Nofke, 532 W. Roosevelt street, residence and garage, $2,700; Paul Nofke, 223 S. Douglas street, residence and garage, $3,155; Paul Nofke, 219 S. Douglas street, residence, $3,975.

Thomas O'Malley, Edgewood High school student at Madison, Wis., toured Washington this week with his teacher, Sister M. Carmela, his reward for being one of five students among 65,000 in 500 schools who won recognition in a news contest sponsored by a magazine.

Comment on "Third Term" Reserved or protesting comment from Wisconsin congressmen who would voice their reaction greeted the recent statement of Governor Earle of Pennsylvania proposing a third term for President Roosevelt.

Comment included: Representative M. K. Reilly, Fond du Lac, Wis.: "The campaign is a long ways ahead. This is no time at all to be forecasting who the candidates will be."

Representative Garner Withrow, La Crosse: "I doubt if this would be advisable. It would establish a bad precedent and it would be unfair to President Roosevelt to take such 'gaffs' for four more years."

Representative George Schneider, Appleton: "Governor Earle made a foolish statement, a colossal blunder."

Representative Merlin Hull, Black River Falls: "It was an unwise statement."

Representative Gerald Boileau, Wausau: "I don't think President Roosevelt has any intention of seeking a third term."

Representative Gehrman: "It's a lot of talk and it's too early for such things."

Representative Harry Southoff,

Marion and Symco Will Feature in Pigeon River Loop

First and Second Place Clubs to Clash on Leaders' Field

Embarass	4 4 .500
Clintonville	3 4 .429
Maple Valley	0 9 .000

MARION—The race in the Pigeon River Valley league will tighten up Sunday when Marion will invade Symco in a fight for first place. Symco handed Marion its first two defeats of the season the opening Sunday. Since then Marion has been rolling merrily along although it stumbled last Sunday when it dropped a 10-inning tilt to a fighting Clintonville aggregation. Symco pounded out four victories in a row but dropped two of its last four games. This last victory was a gift when Maple Valley forfeited last week.

Old rivalry will spring anew when Clintonville travels to Bear Creek for a tilt Sunday morning. This game, which may develop into a battle for third place, has been scheduled for the morning because of the celebration in the afternoon.

Embarass, which dropped from third to fourth place when Bear Creek dumped it 11 to 4 last week, will face a new and strong opponent Sunday when Maple Valley visits the Embarass. The Maple Valley boys, champs last year, had rough going so far this year with a skeleton of the championship team. They dropped seven in a row and forfeited their last two games but will open at Embarass with a new lineup under new management.

In the averages released Thursday Ned Wulfs, young initial catcher of Marion, is battling with Dillenberg of Embarass for top honors. Wulfs boasts a .333 mark while Dillenberg, last year's champ swat-smith, is hitting a potent .515.

Symco is leading the league in games won and lost and shows it in the averages. The team slugging the ball in the fielding, Sabrowsky, Symco, before switching his allegiance to Manawa of the Wolf league, hung up three straight victories as a hurler but Wangeling of Marion leads the loop's mound artists with four victories and one set-back. He has hurled fifty innings, fanning forty-four and appearing in eight contests.

NO "SOAKING"
Sacramento, Calif.—California's two big auto associations drew a sigh of relief as the legislature adjourned without enacting a series of bills classed by these organizations as the "soak the motorist" type.

Among those under the associations' fire were measures to fingerprint all drivers, to tax motor tourists to re-establish speed traps and to require semi-annual inspection of automobiles at a fee.

Cubs and Giants in Close Race to Clinch July 4th "Championship"

BY SID FEDER

ALTHOUGH the work nearly a thousand miles apart, and haven't even seen each other in almost two weeks, Chicago's Clouting Cubs and New York's Just-Tough Giants are waging a war that has the current Spanish flu looking like a pink tea party.

They're both swinging from the heels at anything and everything in sight to be on top of the National league in time for the fireworks to start popping for tomorrow's July 4 holiday and the big league baseball deadline.

Tradition has it that the outfit at the head of the parade on July 4 will be in the same spot when all the chips are counted, come closing day.

In the American league this year, only the end of the world or an unobtainable can keep the Yankees out of the driver's seat for the mythical mid-season mark. Despite an 8-3 setback at the hands of Washington's Senators yesterday, the Yankees are still breezing along on a 4-game lead, already clinching the July 4 "championship."

But over in the other fellow's back yard, it's still anybody's ball game. At the moment, the Cubs are holding the reins by the mealy margin of half a game over the Giants. In their back-breaking efforts to be the No. 1 crew for the holiday, the Cubs have turned in a 4-game winning streak, and the Giants have done it six games in a row.

After galloping over the Gas House gang of Cardinals three in a row, the Cubs opened against Pittsburgh's pounding Pirates yesterday, and held onto their league lead with a 6-7 decision, not the least important of which was Augie Galan's game-wrecking poke with a mate on base and one out in the ninth.

The Giants, at the same time, began a series with their second-division rivals of the week, Boston's somewhat puncheon Bees, and finished on top 6-2, without much trouble since King Carl Hubbell turned in a 7-hitter and fanned seven.

Bump Hadley's luck ran out on him in Washington, despite Joe DiMaggio's seventeenth homer of the year, and the Nats had little difficulty fashioning their victory.

That defeat didn't change the American league standings, since the second place Chicago White Sox also were taking one on the chin. Before Jim Walker's 6-hit effort, the Sox were straggled and dropped a 4-2 verdict to the Browns.

Boston's Red Sox found the Philadelphia Athletics a cinch and came through 8-4 in their series opener. The Brooklyn Dodgers' Luke Hamlin blanked the Phillies with seven hits for a 3-0 win.

Cold weather (believe it or not) postponed the Tigers-Indians get-together, and the Cardinals and Reds weren't scheduled.

800 Meter Thriller
The 800 meter run promised to be no less of a thriller, with the defending champion, Chuck Beath of Ohio State, tying into Pittsburgh's Negro Olympic champion, John Woodruff; Ross Bush of Southern California, the champion of Washington, John Marion, Negro star from Prairie View, Tex., a star who last night won the junior 800 meters title in easy fashion in 1 minute, 55 seconds.

The juniors turned in six record performances and a tie in record time in the first day of the program yesterday. Bill Foster of Drake university, won the junior 1000 meters in 3:08.4 to replace the former mark of 3:11 set by Andrew Zamparelli of Northeastern University last year. Another Drake star, Ray Mahannah, won the 1500 meters in 5:57.8, clipping eight-tenths of a second off the previous record set by John Simmons of the Texas Neighborhood A. A. four years ago.

Wins Broad Jump
Mel Walker's brother, Charles, a freshman at Ohio State, won the broad jump at 24 feet, 10 inches, as compared to the 24 feet, 81 inches won by the junior Brooks, Chicago Negro, which had been on the books since 1931.

Eddie O'Sullivan of the New York Curb Exchange A. A. raced 200 meters around a curve in 21.5 seconds. The old mark was 21.6 and was set by Southern Chicago's Graham, an University of Texas freshman, surpassed the 200 meter record of 21.3 feet, 81 inches set by Woodrow Clark of the University of Richmond, in 1935, and Paul Sanders of Rice Institute, established a new 400 meter mark at 48.4 seconds in the trials, but was beaten by teammate, E. Y. Steakley, in the finals in 48.8.

C. L. Belcher of Georgia Tech. won the 200-meter low hurdles in 23.5 seconds, equalling the meet standard set up by Heye Lambertus of Nebraska, four years ago.

Services Announced

NO "SOAKING"
Sacramento, Calif.—California's two big auto associations drew a sigh of relief as the legislature adjourned without enacting a series of bills classed by these organizations as the "soak the motorist" type.

Among those under the associations' fire were measures to fingerprint all drivers, to tax motor tourists to re-establish speed traps and to require semi-annual inspection of automobiles at a fee.

German Hits 161 Miles an Hour on Twisting Raceway

BY JOE WILLIAMS

New York—The 300-mile automobile race over the twisting, twisting Roosevelt raceway tomorrow is the biggest international sports show America will see this year, bringing together, as it does, the most daring drivers from both sides of the Atlantic.

From the standpoint of speed records the race isn't likely to blow your hair off because it is more a hazard race than a speed race, though when the drivers turn into the straightaways there will be nothing to stop them but 161 miles an hour.

There will be eight or ten cars in the race capable of bettering 150 on the Roosevelt straightaways but the experts tell you sheer speed isn't as important in this race as skill in taking the curves. On this theory they concede the Americans an outside chance—very outside.

It has been repeatedly pointed out the Americans haven't the cars for road racing as distinguished from speedway racing and hence are unaccustomed to the general formula. But road racing or no road racing the drivers will know how to go around the bends. Some of them take the bends they picked up at the tricky, treacherous dirt tracks.

Americans Will Be Driving Foreign Cars
Most of the Americans will be driving foreign cars but they won't be top notch, specially geared or just out of the factory cars. They will be foreign cars they just happened to get hold of for this race.

Shaw, winner of the 500 some weeks back, can drive in anybody's league and, if there is anything unlikeliest about the Indianapolis thin man may be a mild factor for while at least. The same goes for Billy Winn and Rex Mays, two other Americans, who are confirmed ground taking the bends.

Qualifying Performances Aren't Reliable Guides
Qualifying performances aren't always reliable guides. If they were you might be justified in picking Rudolph Caracciola to win the 300. He is a member of the German invading crew. Caracciola a German? That's right. His ancestors moved into the Rhine sector from Italy two centuries ago. Anyway, Caracciola averaged 85.85 an hour for 10 miles yesterday, the best pre-race record.

Just the same many believe Tazio Nuvolari of Italy is again the man to beat. Nuvolari won the race last year and the deft skill with which he took the crazy bends—there were nine more than now—made a lasting impression on the witnesses. If that's where the race is to be won—on the bends—they've got to be shown Nuvolari can be.

I mentioned in the beginning about the race being the biggest international sports show the country will see this year. I don't know why the affair reminds me of the Olympic games at Berlin but somehow it does. Possibly just because it's international in character and Germany is conspicuously represented.

A fact that takes these international competitors in stride. For the most part anyway. True, there was the time an American audience disgraced itself and the credo of sportsmanship by amusing and reviling a gallant soldier of France—Eugene Criqui in his losing fight with Johnny Dundee.

Tennis Gallery
French the Bird
When a tennis gallery at German town, Pa., tossed etiquette over its shoulder and gave the French-Lacoste, Cochet and Borotra—the bird in all the better known ovals when it was apparent America was going to lose the Davis cup.

Still these and kindred outbursts are more normal than otherwise since it is difficult even for the most cultured, academic attitude to ward anything of compelling interest. But in most such demonstrations you would have to look a long time to find a political significance or even a deep national impulse.

This wasn't so at the Olympic games in Germany. The parade of the nations opening day was a tremendous thing. As the various countries of athletes passed Chancellor Hitler's reviewing box, saluting in accordance with the political doctrine of their respective countries, the reactions of the crowd filled stadium formed an open book of Europe's nationalistic emotions.

And a group that gave Dr. Fuhrer a salute closely approximating the Nazi salute were roundly cheered. When the Bulgarian polo on the loose step, traditionally reminiscent of the German military, the stands boiled with jubilation. And when France greeted the Nazi chief with his own salute the rapturous spectators stood and saluted right back.

"SLOW DOWN AT SUN-DOWN"
San Francisco—Traffic accidents at night account for 60 per cent of all motorizing fatalities, according to the California state automobile association. With motor deaths running 25 per cent above last year's fatalities, the club has initiated a "slow down at sun-down" campaign. Reduction of the normal daytime speed by one-third is recommended.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: Our wild, stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts, opens with the mysterious shooting to death of attractive Jude Blinshop. A series of strange attacks is apparently explained when we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Then Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder by an unseen hand, and the Skipper, Mike's tall, tweedy aunt, disappears. Sleeping powders nearly finish Aunt Martha. William, the chauffeur, Mike and I leave Gay Palmer, Mike's fiancée, with Aunt Martha while we hunt futilely for the Skipper.

Chapter 35
DOPED TO THE GILLS
THE Skipper had run from Jude's room straight to the exact spot of her brother's fall, just as if she had known what she was looking for and where to find it. She had particularly requested that her doubtful story about the old man not be repeated to her sister, the only person aside from Higgins who could in any way substantiate or refute it.

Her alibi with respect to the shooting of M. Farrington rested exclusively on Higgins, who would have died for her with pleasure. Higgins had been in a bad state of nerves since our arrival. I could not be sure of her story, but she was not to be repeated to her sister, the only person aside from Higgins who could in any way substantiate or refute it.

It all boiled down to the fact that the Skipper was the center of the horror that engulfed us. She could see her do so in the case of the cat. Her story could be substantiated only by Martha Farrington, and Martha Farrington's life had twice been threatened since we had heard it. The Skipper had been left alone with her sister, who, but for our chance arrival, would be dead. And the Skipper was missing.

My mind began to consider the unsuspecting rescue party that would probably put in an appearance by morning. I wondered what they would say - what we should say to them. I speculated upon who would be in that boat.

I pictured to myself old Annie Darrel, with a wrinkled face and his down his wrinkled face and his enormous mouth gaping at us. Andie would be in that boat. And after Andie - I couldn't seem to decide on anyone else. Well, we should say that two people had been killed, a third both wounded and poisoned, and a fourth disappeared. Andie would gape at us, and then - blankness. I went over the same ground a dozen times before William came in.

"Mr. Michael says to come down to dinner, sir. I'm to stay with Miss Farrington."

William was to stay - Well, suppose he had locked that cellar door? He had saved the old lady's life first and he would hardly have gone through all that if he were planning another attempt. After all, it was Michael's aunt and Michael's decision. I went down to dinner.

An Appalling Meal
I have eaten some bad meals in my day, but I have never been confronted by anything equal to that one. Hash-browned potatoes, cold and reeking of grease, underdone pork chops, limp and slimy, burnt peas fresh from a tin can. Mike threw down his fork in disgust.

"Higgins," he exploded, "what the devil is the meaning of this?"

Higgins had been quite well aware of what he was giving us. He had served the appalling meal as quietly and carefully as he might have served a banquet for the Duke of York, and yet I had the impression that he had been enjoying an excellent joke. His face never moved a muscle.

"The meaning of what, sir?" Michael nearly strangled. "Don't mimic me? What do you mean by serving this disgusting mess? Has Cook lost her mind?"

"No, sir. Cook is a bit upset, sir. I'm very sorry."

"Sorry?" Michael's face turned purple. "Do you mean to -"

But Gay interposed quickly. "Shut up, Mike. Is there anything in the ice box, Higgins?"

"There might be, miss. I will look."

Gay pushed back her chair. "Never mind," she said. "We'll look ourselves."

Unexpectedly Higgins planted his back against the door. His face was expressionless, but it stopped all three of us.

"If you'll excuse me, miss, I wouldn't advise your going into the kitchen just now." His words were civil enough, but his tone was commanding. It took Michael several seconds to be able to speak at all.

"Why not?"

"Cook is not quite herself. Nerves and a little too much stimulant, sir."

I slanted back at the untouched meal. "Do you mean she's drunk, Higgins?"

"No, not exactly."

Brushing past the butler, Mike strode into the kitchen with Gay at his heels. I took a good look at Higgins. With a slight shrug, he stepped to the table and began to clear it. I wanted to knock some answers out of the man, but his back told me plainly that I might just as well save my breath. Reluctantly I followed the others.

An arresting scene presented itself in the kitchen. Cook sat at the head of the table, a huge spoon in her hand with which she was from time to time dipped into an enormous bowl in front of her. The woman was not drunk. She was doped. Her eyes and skin betrayed that. Mike was staring at her, dumbfounded. But sheer terror was written all over the face of Annie, who crouched on a stool at the other end of the table, apparently under orders not to move. Through the open door into the entry, I could see Gay rummaging in the refrigerator.

"What's the matter with you?" said Michael sternly.

Cook waved a roguish, dripping spoon in his direction and began to curse fluently. We couldn't quiet her for a long time.

Finally, she turned the full benefit of her glassy, muddled eyes on my face. Then, grunting like a ponderous animal, she wobbled to her feet and wove an unsteady course up the stairs, still clutching

Weekend Digest Of Business Activity In Appleton And Vicinity

'Drive Carefully' Is Insurance Firm's Plea As Holiday Arrives

"Drive carefully."

This is the message that has gone out this week to every motorist whose car is protected by Employers Mutual, the outstanding Wisconsin insurance company that has done so much pioneering in the field of accident prevention. Coming before a double holiday that provides a greater opportunity for accidents than an average summer weekend, this message deserves the careful consideration of every motorist, be his weekend trip a few miles long or extending over several hundred.

Every Employers Mutual policyholder is secure in the knowledge that come what may, his policy gives him complete protection without loopholes or exceptions. He also knows that careful driving and association in a company that is careful to select careful drivers helps to keep the cost of his insurance down.

A call to 3264, the Employers Mutual complete Appleton office, headed by R. J. White, will bring all required information.

'PEA FESTIVAL'
Millon-Freewater, Ore.—(7)—Other cities can have their festivities celebrating historical events, or their parades honoring roses or rhododendrons.

This Eastern Oregon community chooses to honor the lowly pea from which a sizable proportion of its farm income derives. Civic leaders held a "pea festival" this summer, and found it so successful they voted to make it an annual event.

Belling's Is True Drug Store With Highest Rating

39 Years Faithful Prescription Service Safeguards Customers

"Yes," Belling's Drug Store is an honest-to-goodness drug store, many people testify who have patronized Belling's for many years. While this firm is in every sense of the word completely modern, there is nothing new about the type of service it has been offering during the years of its existence. Belling's is a true prescription drug store where the prescription department is not hidden behind the hardware items. As a result, innumerable families find it the safe, sane, economical practice to take all prescriptions there for attention and to depend upon the Belling line of standard remedies exclusively.

Good advice costs nothing at Belling's, a feature which has made many friends for this store. Another characteristic has been Belling's understanding of the doctor's requirements and its familiarity with what leading physicians prescribe. The result is complete satisfaction every time and a complete escape from the danger of improperly filled prescriptions or prescriptions compounded with substandard ingredients.

Belling's reputation for this service has not come about as a matter of chance but as a result of 39 years of faithful prescription service. Its expert, registered pharmacists know the meaning of accuracy and practice it faithfully in all the work they do. This, combined with the fact that only fresh, efficient, and highest quality drug compounds are used and careful handling and storing of drugs, plus periodic checkups, make sure that they contain full strength.

the repulsive bowl in her arms. Four of us gaped after her. Mike flung himself into a chair. "Oh, hell!" he muttered wearily. "What next? Damn it all, what next?"

I didn't answer him. My attention for the moment was fixed upon Annie, still shivering at the end of the table.

"Annie," I said, "have you ever seen Cook like this before?" The girl nodded dumbly. "Often?"

"No"—only once.

"Last winter. It was only once. Mr. Wells. She ain't done it in years except then. It was—was an awful storm, sir. And she had a tooth-ache."

I chewed that rapidly. "Did either of the Miss Farringtons know of it?" "No, sir. We—we said she was sick and me and William. There wasn't no use in letting on to Higgins. He'd have gone straight to the missus, and—I used to know Cook when I was little. She'd given it up, sir. And anyway, it wasn't like this. She was just quiet. Mr. Wells, you're not going to—"

La Villa Restaurant Installs New Air Conditioning for Cool Comfort

A new convenience in keeping with the high progressive standard practiced by the La Villa Restaurant and Candy shop, 130 E. College avenue, is now being offered to the patrons of this popular eating establishment. Real comfort, even during the hottest summer days, is assured at the La Villa since the installation of a modern, fully equipped, air-conditioning system. No expense has been spared in realizing this latest achievement. The finest air-conditioning systems of the world's largest builders were carefully inspected before final decision was made in the purchasing of the present equipment. Year-round, summer and winter, comfortable, healthful temperatures with proper humidity content will now be maintained at the La Villa, adding considerably to the already comfortable and pleasant luncheon and eating atmosphere of this restaurant.

Leslie Field
Just as the La Villa Restaurant originated and led in the idea and installation of booth service in restaurants, and was the first restaurant in Appleton and vicinity to

"I don't know," I said. "Go help Miss Palmer scare up something to eat out there."

She went, but I had to help her to her feet. As soon as she was out of earshot I whirled on Michael.

"She's doped to the gills, now. That means—I was just beginning to realize what it did mean. The second attempt on M. Farrington's life had been made by dope. And either Cook had once been an addict or Annie was a liar. No help was forthcoming from Michael. He sat staring at the floor, not even listening to me."

"What do you think, Mike?" No answer. Impatiently I shook his shoulder. But the entrance of Gay and Annie stopped me. They had found food all right—plenty of it. But for once a successful raid afforded me no satisfaction. We all ate because we needed food, not because we wanted it. Higgins made quiet entrances and exits to and from the dining room, assured us that he had already eaten, begged permission to retire, and took himself off upstairs with evident reluctance.

Over and over in my mind, I mulled the possibilities that this new angle lent to the situation. If Cook was now doped—and there seemed very little doubt on that score—there was a possibility that she had been in the same condition on the night when Norman Farrington made his dramatic entrance into the house.

In that case, all of our previous calculations of time were worthless. There was no telling how long Annie had lain bound and gagged in the entry. And the unquestionable fact of William's lathered and partially shaven face dwelled in importance. He might have taken all the time in the world to prepare the evidence.

President Lifts Official Ban on Two Photo Groups

Hyde Park, N. Y.—(P)—White House officials Friday lifted from two news photographic organizations a ban imposed because of pictures taken by visitors at the Democratic "love feast" on Jefferson island last week and distributed by the two services.

The organizations are the Associated Press of which Edward Stanley is executive editor of the news photo division; and the Acme News Picture Service of which Fred Ferguson is president.

Ferguson and Stanley visited President Roosevelt here yesterday and, following the conference, issued the following statement: "We called on the president at his invitation and laid before him our points of view with reference to the situation arising over the taking of pictures on Jefferson island last week."

"We did not make any request for action on the part of the president. We merely wanted him to understand fully our position in the matter."

"We told the president that we did not feel that there had been any impropriety or violation of the agreements that we or other reputable news or photographic organizations maintained with the White House."

"We believe that the matter is being amicably and amiably adjusted in our negotiations with Secretary Early."

Stephen T. Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, notified the two services earlier in the week they would be put under a temporary ban.
